State Assembly Faces Challenge For Relief Funds

Pinchot's Aid Appeal To R. F. C. Held Up Until State Shows Attitude

STATE MUST MOVE TO HELP CITIZENS

State Assembly Had Expected U. S. Funds To Solve Snarl In Session

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—A challenge, as grim as it was unequivocal, confronted the state assembly today.

The Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation will help those who help themselves.

That precisely was the essence of the charge flung down to Pennsylvania by the government's relief agency.

Flat Rejection.

The commonwealth's representatives, pleading for federal aid on a basis of two extraordinary legislative sessions, were sent from Washington with what in effect was a flat rejection couched in choice diplomatic language.

Rec. directors indicated they will deal only with entries in the "result" column of the legislative ledger and not in the intangible pages of mere endeavor.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot and other members of the delegation brought back from Washington realities that the state's lawmakers will find on the doorsteps of legislative halls when they return here next week.

Is Severe Jolt.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Lovers of tasty roasting ears never regret the advent of August, and from what Pa Newc hears, the usual routine of corn roasts about the county won't be long in starting. For a while, though, you'll hear them called "picnics".

We've seen huge steel beams and joints but the old wooden beam which formed the center support for the old Smith structure, Diamond way, now being leveled to the ground is the largest wooden support we've run across. It's 14x6 and 43 feet long, cut out of native white pine. The story goes that it was taken from the same Poland, O., woods out of which builders obtained beams and other material for Edenburg's covered bridge.

ASKS THAT LOCAL CEMENT MILLS BE AWARDED CONTRACTS

County Commissioner F. R. Woods yesterday sent a telegram to State Highway Superintendent Samuel Lewis asking that Lawrence county cement be specified for the new bridge to be erected near Wurtemburg. Lawrence county has several large cement mills, all of which make a good product, and it is believed that the county should be favored to the extent of having local plants furnish the material. Commissioner Woods did not specify any cement plant product, but simply asked that the material be bought in the county.

OLD TIMER'S DAY PICNIC OCCURS NEXT WEDNESDAY

Secretary W. T. Butz of the Old Timers' Day Association reports today that a meeting of the executive committee of the organization was held last night, at which all arrangements were completed for going ahead with the annual reunion at Cascade Park on next Wednesday, Aug. 10.

Regardless of the action of the park authorities in curtailing the park season by closing of the concessions, the annual Old Timers' reunion will be held as scheduled. Arrangements have been made for music for the day and for any other things necessary to holding a successful outing, Mr. Butz reports.

There is every indication of this 26th annual reunion being one of the memorable events in the entire history of the Old Timers' Day project, Mr. Butz says.

Host Of Job Seekers Besieging Pinchot For Places On Commission

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—With two $10,000 jobs on the Public Service Commission immediately at his disposal, Gov. Gifford Pinchot is besieged by the greatest army of job seekers since the formation of the cabinet.

In addition to the two places now available the Governor will have another appointment on October 1 when the resignation of Commissioner Emerson Collins will become effective.

Among the score or more names being mentioned today for immediate appointment it is considered questionable if the $10,000 wand will be wafted into the laps of any of them.

Among Hopefuls

One of the most prominently mentioned is former Judge Arthur C. Dale, Bellefonte, who is now chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board and who always has been in the forefront of Pinchot campaigns.

Trailing Dale is a long list of hopefuls whose respective chances are being discussed. The list includes Harold Evans and J. H. Scattergood, both of Philadelphia and both of whom were named to the commission in the former Pinchot administration.

The list also includes John H. Walker, Leechburg, the youthful utility expert who recently was dismissed as counsel in the Governor's office; the Rev. James R. Cox, who promises rates at next to nothing if named; John C. Orr, local Pinchot leader who has been handling a large portion of the state's bonding business; Gus Gleason, a Grundy lieutenant in Cambria county; Charles Reitell who may lose a $10,000 post as head of Greater Pennsylvania Council; Mayor Eddie McCloskey of Johnstown whose chances are considered slight since playing host to the bonus seekers and Samuel S. Lewis, Secretary of Highways, who is considered much too thrifty to shift from a $12,000 post to one paying but $10,000.

Situation Beclouded

The situation is a bit beclouded because J. W. Brown, Lancaster, whose term expired on July 1, still is considered a possibility for appointment. Brown received his appointment to the commission during the former Pinchot administration but

Fire Damages Emlenton, Pa.

Business District Of Village Is Threatened By Ravaging Flames

NO ESTIMATE OF DAMAGE IS MADE

(International News Service)

EMLENTON, Pa., Aug. 5.—The entire business section of this village was threatened with destruction today when a fire of undetermined origin swept through at least 20 buildings.

As a general appeal was made to surrounding towns for fire fighting equipment, the flames levelled a number of small garages and storage buildings before entering the business section.

No estimate could be made of the damage inflicted but numbered among the ruins were a clothing store, tailor shop, jewelry store, an automobile tire shop and several homes.

Old Hotel Burns.

EMLENTON, Pa., Aug. 5—A shifting wind coming at an opportune moment was believd to have saved this village from destruction today as a $60,000 fire damaged approximately 15 buildings in and near the business district.

Starting from an undetermined origin, the fire made rapid headway as it swept through old garages and storage houses before fire fighters brought it under control after a four-hour battle.

The wind shifted just as the flames neared the Farmers' bank building and no damage was inflicted on the structure. The fire started in the old Valley House, a former hotel and historic landmark. As the flames leaped into the air, neighbors were awakened and a fire-fighting squad immediately organized. Help was summoned from Parker City and the combined forces succeeded in keeping the blaze from doing severe damage.

WALL STREET CERTAIN MARKET HAS TURNED

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—For the first time in many moons Wall street has a glitter in its eye. The faces of the people sitting silent and tense in the customers' room, watching the ticker, relax now and then into an idiotic smile.

For the market has turned. Yes, it has really happened at last. Savings of a lifetime and small fortunes that seemed to have disappeared a year ago, or else to be nothing more than a handful of nickels and dimes, are appearing again on a sudden upward grade, and have trebled and quadrupled themselves in the last two weeks.

Customers Coming Back.

"Customers have been coming back in here this week whom we thought must be dead," said one of the partners of Wall street's most important brokers today; "their money has suddenly appeared on the map again after having sunk completely out of sight in the last two years, and the market has gone absolutely crazy. Everybody is buying the stocks that have fallen to almost nothing."

It all began, it seems, with the rise of the dollar, and the consequent rush of European countries to buy American securities. But that only started it. It gave people a spark of confidence, and they began to buy. Astonished stockbrokers began to see the quivering line on the market charts rising like their own blood pressure.

People Buy For Cash.

"The appreciation has been remarkable these last two weeks," said the important partner wisely, with a small ticker going like mad at his elbow, "and there have been tremendous cash buys. Heaven alone knows where people are getting the money from.

"Of course,"—he put his finger tips deprecatingly together—"it can't last at this rate. It's bound to go down again, but then it will rise to a greater level than the present, and so on, gaining a little every time until—in about two years, I should say—we will be back where we were before the depression. The people who sold out their securities when they had sunk so low are going practically to kick themselves to death in a few months."

Bonus Marchers Slowly Leaving Johnstown Camp

Mayor McCloskey Faces Difficulties In Evacuation Of Veterans

STATE POLICE ARE SENT TO DISTRICT

All Quiet On Surface But Mayor Is Taking No Chances

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—What there was left of the bonus army here was again in a turmoil today, and state, county, and city officials were obviously prepared for trouble.

Leaders of the evacuating marchers assured Mayor McCloskey of Johnstown that "everything would be orderly," but the mayor was taking no chances and the situation was recognized as tense.

State police milled about the ill-natured hosts of marchers preparing to depart, but did not interfere with their activities, and there were two contingents of state troopers reported nearby in case of an emergency. All police of Johnstown and authorities of Cambria and Somerset counties were on 24 hour duty, and there were no furloughs.

Quiet On Surface.

From the surface trouble or a quiet and complete evacuation appeared to be equally imminent. There were about 3,000 veterans left in the low-lying encampment four miles outside of Johnstown, and Mayor McCloskey has ordered the camp cleared of marchers by nightfall.

There were a number of obstacles which he must overcome before this could be accomplished, all involving the perplexing problem of transportation. The mayor is confident he can accomplish his end, however, and served this blunt ultimatum:

"Ideal Park, where the marchers have been camped, must be cleared by nightfall. I will find transportation somehow."

Won't Haul Them East.

Mayor McCloskey faced quite a task. In the first place there were several hundred veterans, many of them with families, who have decrepit automobiles, no gasoline to make them run and nowhere to go if they get it. Secondly, there were hundreds who live in sections east of Johnstown, and the Baltimore

Four Are Killed In Auto Crash

(International News Service)

FAIRMONT, W. Va. Aupg. 5—One man and three high school students were killed here today when their automobile in which they were riding crashed into a pole.

The dead are: Wayne Morgan 30, Richard Morris, 21; James Schultz, 18; and Tony Bilotta 18. The latter three were students at the East Fairmont high school.

George Heston, 25, driver of the automobile, is confined in a hospital in a serious condition, but may recover, hospital attaches reported.

Failure to see a turn in a heavy fog caused the accident police said.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 5.—One of the very able men of the automobile industry goes into the cabinet, Roy Chapin. He arrived on his new job just in time to get his salary cut 15 per cent. You can get some awful good men now to work for mighty little money.

In the bicycle events out here in the Olympics our riders couldn't get there in time to change a tire for the foreigners. Too many Fords parked outside schoolhouses for our young folks to even know how to ride a bike.

Folks had nothing laid up when this depression hit us, but it looks like they think autographs will save 'em the next time.

Mark Time On River Project; Plan Rejected

Meeting Of Officials Of Tri-River Association Will Be Called Soon

DECISION IS NOT UNEXPECTED ONE

Although the unfavorable report on the survey for the improvement of the Beaver, Shenango and Mahoning rivers in Pennsylvania and Ohio, which was handed down late yesterday by Colonel George R. Spalding, division engineer of the U. S. Army, was not entirely unexpected, it came as a big disappointment to officials of the Beaver, Mahoning and Shenango Rivers Improvement Association.

Members of the association have worked hard on the project for the past two and a half years and were successful in securing a preliminary survey of the district. While it had been hoped that this survey would be favorable, yet the history of similar projects is such that its boosters are not discouraged by the temporary setback in their plans and will fight even harder to have the project put through if at all possible, it was stated today.

Reasons Cited

The principal grounds upon which the adverse conclusions of the army engineers are based are that the unfavorable natural characteristics of the upper Beaver, Shenango and Mahoning rivers; restricted widths due to concentration of rail facilities and encroachment of industry; meager water supply, and the complexity and magnitude of necessary bridge alterations impose such physical limitations upon their improvement that the resulting waterway system would be inadequate to carry sufficient commerce in a manner to make the savings necessary to

Society Woman In Washington Dies Of Wounds

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Charles Mason Remey, 46, prominent Washington society woman, died early today from two bullet wounds, reported to have been self inflicted. She was found critically wounded in the bedroom of her home by her husband, a leading capital architect.

Remey told police he heard a shot, and ran to his wife's bedroom, finding her on the floor, a bullet wound in her head. Lifting her body to the bed, he told police, he then phoned for a physician.

During his absence, he told police, his wife took the gun from the bed and fired a second shot into her brain.

Infatuation For Mrs. Keith-Miller Is Revealed By Diary Notations

Prosecution Asserts His Jealousy Caused Shooting Of Clarke

COURTHOUSE, MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 5.—Captain William N. Lancaster's own story of his infatuation for "Chubbie"—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller—and the mental agony he underwent when he learned Haden Clarke had won her affections was laid before the jury at Lancaster's trial for the murder of Clarke today.

That story in Lancaster's own words from the diary which the British flyer kept, was read into the record by the prosecution in support of the state's contention that Lancaster, beside himself with jealousy, shot Clarke to death in the Keith-Miller home here the night of April 20.

ANY PROPER TAX MEASURE FAVORED

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5—Forced to a right-about-face by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's action in refusing funds for Pennsylvania's needy, Gov. Pinchot today indicated he now favors additional taxation in the state as an opening wedge to procure federal aid funds.

The governor's statement that he would sign "any proper tax measure which reaches me" was in marked contrast to his attitude when the special session convened. At that

WOMAN LEAPS FROM 12th STORY WINDOW

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 5.—A death note was being investigated today as authorities sought to establish the motive which prompted a woman, believed to be Mrs. Ira B. Delaney, of Philadelphia, to plunge 12 stories to her death here last night.

Despite the attempts of another woman to concole her, Mrs. Delaney leaped from a wash-room in a downtown building during the night rush hour. Her body landed on the roof of an adjoining theater.

The note found by officials of the coroner's office indicated despondency over ill health. It requested that I. B. Delaney, 15 North Thirty-Second street, Philadelphia, be notified. It read:

"This is the result of complicated circumstances. I realize I cannot get well. The agony of getting no sleep, night or day, is more than I can bear.

"I cannot torture my people any longer. They have done everything in their power to help me."

It was signed Mrs. I. B. Delaney.

Widow And Friend Are Indicted On Charges Of Murder

SEARCH THREE STATES FOR "TORCH SINGER"

Winston-Salem Tragedy Takes New Turn Following Probe

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds, widow of young Zachary Smith Reynolds, and Broadway favorite, today was hunted on a charge of murder by authorities of three states.

Her whereabouts was still unknown to Sheriff Transou Scott, of Forsyth county, who wishes to arrest the famous singer of "Torch" songs on an indictment alleging that she "wilfully and with malice aforethought" assisted in the slaying of her 20-year-old millionaire husband. Smith was fatally wounded on the sleeping porch of his estate home after a gay party just one month ago today.

Walker Is Jailed

Ab. Walker, closest friend of the dead heir to tobacco millions, was already lodged in the county jail here. Walker was indicted jointly with Libby on the murder charge late Thursday.

Alfred Holman, father and attorney of Libby, was enroute to Winston-Salem. He was expected to arrive here this afternoon.

A report was in circulation that he would pick up his daughter on the way and surrender her to authorities here upon his arrival.

It was pointed out that such procedure would prevent the notoriety and emotional anguish expected to be felt by Mrs. Reynolds were she to give herself up to Ohio authoritics and go through the public formality of waiving extradition.

Before leaving Cincinnati, the father of Mrs. Reynolds charged his daughter was being "framed," that she was resting at a resort near the

Carter Appears At Huntington

(International News Service)

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Aug. 5.—Captain Doak Carter, of the B. E. F., whose whereabout have been a mystery since he split with National Commander Walter Waters at the Johnstown, Pa., camp of the bonus army, turned up here today. He denied that a camp is to be set up in Huntington, which had been feared by officials.

Carter arrived here at the head of a group of about 50 marchers, and immediately went to a hotel. Police and state troops were on hand, fearing disorder.

Carter said that if even a temporary camp were set up, it would be outside of the city limits.

The sun shines bright as is often quite the case, but it only shines on schedule as you know, and the days are mostly warm, but the nights are something else, and at times it seems as though we might have snow. Now I would not change the rule, for these nights that come so cool, are the thing the doctor ordered for a rest, and it seems to me just right that it should be cool at night and the weathermaker probably knows best. But there's one thing seems to me, isn't just what it should be, for tomatoes need the night air warm and balm, but we cannot have it so, so the stuff will have to grow, best it can, it's ninety six and hot and calm.

NEW OUTBREAKS OCCUR IN EAST PRUSSIA

Drastic Action Being Planned

May Provide Death Penalty For Political Crimes To Halt Trouble

TERRORISM TO BE STAMPED OUT

By EDWARD L. DEUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Aug. 5—With new outbreaks occurring hourly in spite of threatening new emergency decrees providing the death penalty for political crimes, Chancellor Franz Von Papen today despatched a special commissar into East Prussia to investigate the reign of terrorism which has cost half a dozen lives since Monday.

"My government is determined to stamp out this terrorism," Van Papen said.

The new step was taken following a new outbreak at Chemnitz between national socialists and communists, in which one rioter was killed and several wounded.

Demand Martial Law

The Voelkischer Beobachter, official organ of Adolf Hitler, demanded imposition of martial law and the shooting of terrorists on sight. Sixty Nazis have been killed and 8,127 wounded in political battles this year, the newspaper said.

Supporting the Nazis persistent claim that communists were responsible for most of the political murders and clashes, the Prussian ministry of the interior today published a casualty list of outbreaks during the last seven weeks in all localities excepting Berlin.

The list showed 72 killed and 497 seriously wounded. Of the total of 322 clashes, communists were held the agressors in 230 cases. The Nazis were held responsible for 75 and Reichsbannerites blamed for 21. The remaining 21 were of unknown origin.

STATE ASSEMBLY FACES CHALLENGE FOR RELIEF FUNDS

covers itself shorn of the confidence that federal aid would be a "way out." Into what frame of thought and action the R. F. C.'s answer will jolt the assembly was a subject that transcended all other consideration today.

New tax proponents hope to see the news from the nation's capitol accelerate favorable action on their program, with which the house will resume its wrestling Monday night.

How the assembly hopes to disentangle itself from the maze of legislation in four more days is not quite clear, and the odds against adjournment next Thursday were further heightened yesterday, first by the decision of the Wade-Sheffer rural bloc leaders to father a new occupation tax program and secondly by the "deferred action" of the R. F. C. on Pennsylvania's relief plea.

Moreover, the Steedle general appropriations bill is still being coddled on legislative desks with its chief sponsor, when it was an "economy" keystone, resentful about the over hauling it went through and refusing to sign the conference report on the measure.

Thomas Ross was renamed by council to a temporary position as city firemen until August 15 when solons met in city hall today.

and Ohio Railway has refused to haul them homeward because all of its eastern lines pass through Washington.

McCloskey had no success, up to early today, in his effort to persuade the Pennsylvania railroad to haul the marchers east. His newest plan was to send them to other state lines on state highway trucks, and 100 of them were on hand for the work.

They were ready to leave last night, but the mayor held them, declaring he wished all the marchers who could do so to travel on trains.

There was about $1,100 in the veterans' treasury, but none of this money was released for food. McCloskey said this, and more, was due on bills incurred by the veterans since they came here.

McCloskey went out to the camp yesterday and warned the veterans against drinking. He said there was a bootlegger in camp and advised the men to "take him out and hang him."

PINCHOT FAVORS NEW TAXATION

time he asserted his opposition to any new form of taxation to provide direct relief.

Attitude Changed

The change in the governor's attitude is believed due to the stand taken yesterday by the reconstruction Finance Corporation which held that Pennsylvania should raise more money to aid the idle before any federal funds are made available.

Although the governor has indicated recently that he felt kindly toward the imposition of additional tax burdens so that the unemployed may be aided, today was the first that he expressed willingness to favor 'any proper tax measure." The governor did not say which of the scores of revenue raising measures now before the house he considers the most 'proper."

The open change in the governor's attitude is expected to influence some members of the rural bloc who have been holding out against more taxes at this time. The most persistent demand for taxation of any kind which will give their city more funds has come from the Philadelphia delegation. Should the entire Allegheny county delegation in the house join those from Philadelphia in a move to pass new taxes some of the governor's supporters would be certain to join. That would permit passage of tax measures by a safe margin.

Although members of the senate joined yesterday in the futile pilgrimage to Washington to get federal funds that body so far has shown no willingness to join with the house in its recent taxation schemes.

Chicago Fire Loss Mounts To $2,000,000

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Half of Chicago's fire-fighting force was battling desperately early today to subdue a monster blaze in the city's southwestern industrial district.

Raging for more than twelve hours, the roaring conflagration wrought damage estimated at approximately $2,000,000 and sent seven firemen to hospitals with serious injuries. Fire department officials declared they had succeeded in confining the blaze within a limited area and there was little danger of the flames spreading.

Devoured by the giant fire was the $1,000,000 Quincy grain elevator, while the big buildings of the Omaha Packing Company were doomed.

REYNOLDS' WIDOW NOT YET LOCATED BY AUTHORITIES

Ohio city, and that he would negotiate for her surrender when he arrived here.

Officials expressed irritation at the statements made by Holman, recalling the declaration he made in a recent telegram sent to Winston-Salem authorities that Mrs. Reynolds was available whenever she was needed in the North Carolina City.

Mrs. Reynolds Fugitive

They pointed out that Mrs. Reynolds was now virtually a fugitive from justice and that the law provided there should be no obstruction by any person or persons of the efforts of police officers to apprehend an indicted person.

However, Sheriff Scott indicated he would be satisfied if Mrs. Reynolds accompanied her father to Winston-Salem today and surrendered.

The Sheriff dispatched a telegram to Sheriff Asa Z. Butterfield, of Hamilton county, Ohio, and another to Chief Police Inspector John O'Brien, of New York City, asking for the immediate arrest of Libby.

As soon as Mrs. Reynolds is arrested and brought back to Winston-Salem, she will be put in the same jail holding Walker.

Under the legal procedure of North Carolina, defendants charged with first degree murder are not generally permitted freedom under bail.

It is likely that both prisoners will be held incommunicado unless habeas corpus proceedings are instituted by their counsel.

In this event, the court hearing on the writ would equal a major trial inasmuch as the evidence upon which the defendants are held would be presented by the state's attorney.

New Evidence

The new evidence in connection with the Reynolds death gathered by Sheriff Scott, the one-man investigating force of the county, has not yet been officially revealed.

This fresh evidence, in addition to the testimony given by the defendants and guests at the tragic party before a coroner's jury, has been termed "startling" by Sheriff Scott.

It includes statements made by persons unheard at the inquest and the discovery of several new "clues" within the post-party shooting occurred.

Ab. Walker, 19-year-old son of a wealthy real estate dealer, is one of the most popular members of the Winston-Salem younger social set.

Walker had known Smith, one year his senior, since childhood and they were inseparable chums, Walker accompanied him on his prolonged courtship of Libby, when Smith followed the husky-voiced singer on tour through a dozen cities, Walker was generally with him.

This damon-and-pythias relationship between Ab. and Smith culminated into the employment of Walker as secretary to the heir to $15,000,000, the commission being given only a few days before the shooting.

Hectic Party

During the night of the hectic party at the Reynolds home on the night of July 5, Libby put her arms about Ab. down at the boathouse, Walker testified.

"Smith doesn't love me," Libby whispered into his ear, said Walker.

"She was very tight," he added.

Young Reynolds saw this scene and took the matter up with his Broadway bride.

They came over to Walker.

"I didn't kiss you, did I?" Libby asked Ab., the latter testified.

And Walker said he replied: "Of course not."

Other witnesses told how Mrs. Reynolds was missing from the party for from two to three hours.

F. E. Fulcher, the night watchman on the estate, said Libby returned at 12:30 a. m., that Walker joined her from somewhere, and that they walked up the path toward the house where Smith sat on the porch waiting.

Libby was walking with a short step and then a long step, according to the night watchman.

Smith, without a word took Libby by the arm and led her inside the house.

Walker timed the incident as an hour earlier than that given by the night watchman. The latter insisted it was 12:30 a. m. because his duties called for hourly rounds and he noted the time.

It was within half-an-hour, that Fulcher heard a shot. He said he attributed the shot at the time to his young master and his friends engaging in a nocturnal bit of target practice, a habit in which they frequently indulged.

What happened between 12:30 and 1:00 a. m. has been satisfactorily explained to authorities.

Fail To Find Libby

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 5.—County authorities rebuffed last night in their search for attractive Libby Holman Reynolds, believed today that the Broadway torch singer may be in seclusion awaiting the stork.

The information that Libby has sought quiet and solitude somewhere in Ohio or Michigan to await the arrival of a baby was said to have been obtained by County Investigator Joseph B. Schaefer, who made an attempt last night to arrest her for the murder of her husband, Smith Reynolds, heir to the tobacco millions, following her indictment yesterday at Winston Salem, N. C.

Eludes Arrest

Although Libby is understood to have left the fashionable home of her sister, Mrs. Myron D. Kahn, in Wyoming, O., on July 19, Schaefer went there yesterday intended to arrest her.

"Libby isn't here. I won't tell you where she is. I wouldn't give any information on a frame-up," Schaefer was told by Libby's father and attorney, Albert Holman, Cincinnati lawyer.

From Mrs. Kahn, it was reported, came the information that Libby's departure from Cincinnati was for the purpose of preparing for the birth of a baby. During the coroner's investigation a servant reported overhearing Mrs. Reynolds tell Ab. Walker, the Winstan-Salem youth with whom she has been indicted, "Ab, I'm going to have a baby."

Conflicting Reports

The latest of a maze of conflicting reports about Libby's whereabouts is that the pretty young widow has secluded herself with friends either in Odin, Mich., or Travers City, Mich.

justify the large capital outlay and large operating costs involved.

While this probably is true of the upper reaches of the Mahoning and Shenango rivers, yet this would hardly be the case of the Beaver river, at least as far as New Castle Junction.

LAY CAPTAIN LANCATER'S OWN STORY BEFORE JURY

Day by day the diary told its story of an intense devotion, of an unending battle against lack of money, of a continuing pursuit of will-of-the-wisp business schemes, and of a regard for Chubbie which mattered more to Lancaster than the failure of futile ventures or the ever-pressing problem of where his next meal was coming from.

It spoke of the meeting with Clarke, young newspaperman, who was to "ghost-write" Mrs. Keith-Miller's book for her, of Clarke's coming to live with them at the Keith-Miller home, of increasing doubt as to Clarke's trustworthiness and finally, on the wild-goose flight which Lancaster took to Texas and the Pacific Coast, of his learning from a mutual friend that Clarke apparently had taken his place in Chubbie's heart.

All Ginned Up

"Mental agony ! ! !" Reads Lancaster's entry in his diary that night in Los Angels.

The date was April 2.

Lancaster wrote: "Russell shows me two of Mrs. R's letters. One says Chubbie and Clarke came around tonight. They were all ginned up. I really think now that Clarke has gained Chubbie's affections, and Bill (Lancaster) lost them.' The other letter said: 'Was round at Chubbie's tonight. She and Clarke got all ginned up together. Don't tell Bill'.

"Mental agony ! ! !"

Excerpts from the date on show Lancaster's increasing anxiety. Money was lacking for the trip back to Miami. The business scheme which brought him west had collapsed. In his diary, he wrote:

"Why no wire from Chubbie?"

"4 a. m. have been trying to telephone Chubbie. No reply. Why? "Ill with nervous worry."

"Chubbie, how are you?. . . "

"Chubbie, darling, what is it all about?. . . "

"Wired Chubbie. The reply worries me. If only she would send something nice, such as: 'Don't worry: I still love you.' "

"Thank goodness for one thing—I have made a firm resolution to end all this mental strain—have it out! Then work for our common good."

"I adore her and want to see her happy. If only she did not drink while I was away I would feel okay. Gent (Gentry Shelton, a St. Louis friend) says she has two personalities—Chubbie drunk and Chubbie sober. I love both.

"Is H. C. trustworthy, is my problem. . . .

"Chubbie, angel, it won't be long until I see you and hold you."

And a day later:

"Awakened with misgivings, suffer the tortures of the damned! Ways and means have to be found today to get on East. East is where my life lies. Everything I hold dear is there. If it's gone from me I will end this life. I can't stand the strain much longer. . .

"Am going to Miami, whatever happens, to find out first hand all about everything.

"I love you, Chubbie—have done my best—but failed.

"Want to talk things over with you, my sweet. It's five years now since we met."

A few days later he was able to raise the money for the return flight.

SAVINGS ACCOUNTS SET A NEW RECORD

ASTONISHING as it may seem, there are more accounts today in the saving banks of the country than ever before in its history. It is announced that the assets of these banks are greater than they were a year ago and that they make a record for all time. The total is placed at $53,318,867 more than in 1931. There were fluctuations, of course, and the last six months' period showed a decrease; but it is interesting to know that the number of accounts increased by 72,468, making the total number of such accounts 13,432,139—"the high point for all time."

All this, mind you, in a time of business depression and in spite of unemployment and decreased earning power on the part of large numbers of the people. In the face of these figures it is evident that the citizens of this country, on the whole, are much better off than has been generally believed. The buying power of this money is not easy to estimate, but it is obviously large. In it we can easily see possibilities for the restoration of normal times. There has never been a time when purchases of every kind could be made to such advantage. The banking situation has been righted and the remedial legislation at Washington has put the nation on the road to recovery.

STARTING THE CAMPAIGN

The question, uppermost in many minds, When will the presidential campaign start? suggests another question, When DOES a presidential campaign start?

With the throwing of the first hat into the ring? When the president chooses to run? When the conventions adopt their platforms and select their tickets? With the official notification of the nominees? Or is the starting gun the first campaign speech in the fall?

Some contend that the campaign of 1932 started a year or more ago. Others hold that it began with Governor Roosevelt's acceptance speech on the closing day of the Democratic convention. For President Hoover and his managers it will officially open on August 11, when the president will be formally notified of his nomination.

Wouldn't it be accurate to view what has already happened of a campaign nature as the campaign overture and date the campaign proper from the first stumping tour? The voters haven't warmed up to it yet and until popular excitement has been aroused a campaign does not justify the name.

The "They're off!" the party managers and candidates are cupping their ears for, is from the throats of the voters, and it is music to their ears when it is spontaneous and simultaneous with the launching of their favorites.

THE OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS

After taking counsel wholly of their fears for two years the people of the United States suddenly have been restored to a state of hopefulness. Rarely has there been so much random talk of so disquieting a nature as in these last months, but from this abyss of melancholy and depression the public is being lifted in more rapid stages than it sank into it.

This salutary change of sentiment is more warranted than the old hopelessness. The fears that have harassed the minds of the people since "Black October" have been found groundless. The country has not gone off the gold standard, national bankruptcy has not come to pass, the capitalistic system has not collapsed, the world revolution did not break, this industrial nation has not reverted to the handcraft stage.

This change in sentiment is largely responsible for the prolonged improvement of the stock market and for the continuous and prolonged recovery in prices for investment bonds. And they in turn, along with better commodity prices and an upturn in industry, have bolstered that change in sentiment.

However, too much faith should not be placed in the stock market as the sign of the dawning of a new day. The unexpected new strength does not necessarily mean an immediate trade revival, but if the market continues strong trade must necessarily benefit.

Optimism is and should be the order of the day.

SPEED IS RELATIVE

Ideas of speed change with the means. A century ago an Ohio politician was hooted off the stump because he stated as a fact that in England the new steam carriages could travel 20 miles an hour. His opponents ridiculed him and insisted that the human frame could not withstand such speed.

Writers of fiction 20 years ago described young daredevils traveling at the breath-taking and reckless speed of 15 miles in powerful, racing automobiles.

Today persons never in the air think of a hundred miles an hour by airplane as somewhat slow. Sixty miles an hour recently a race track speed, is now within the powers of the cheapest and smallest automobile and is the cruising speed of many motorists.

This history of speed does not, however, carry the argument of some that a speed of as much as 100 miles an hour on main highways is entirely safe. The best of roads and motors are not enough to neutralize the increased danger due to human fallibility and inexperience. Perhaps the 1932 cars can travel at 70 or 80 with greater safety than 1912 models making 30 on the roads of that period, but the dangers are still there.

Railroad trains, can travel faster than they do running on schedule time. They do not use their maximum speed because they have found a limit commensurate with safety. The average motorist determines his maximum speed by the same tule.

Ways of Growing Up
Raising Rabbits, Having a Girl
Being in the Army, Getting Married

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Well, I don't exactly know. Some people seem grown up when they are still children. Some others never seem to grow up at all. Some people learn by experience; some don't . . . But I have a hunch you grow up by having things happen to you and by thinking about them and trying to understand them by letting them sink into your nature. All sorts of things. Big things. Little ones. Solemn events. Trivial happenings. Things like:

raising rabbits for food and becoming so fond of them that you can't bear to kill them; keeping tumbler pigeons and enjoying their tricks in the air; having your long yellow curls cut off; being thrown into the town swimming pool to learn to swim and dog-paddling desperately for shore.

Making root beer when you were a youngster; carving a chain out of wood with a knife; telling a perfect lie and being caught at it; having a "girl" and being teased about her and being sort of proud; learning how to wink; holding a baby for the first time.

Moving into a new town and those first few days of misery when the other kids looked at you as if you were something from Africa; being caught by the train on a railroad trestle and having to run for life, but keeping it secret until now; the first death in your family and the bitter bewilderment of it; the boy who got into trouble; the girl who "went wrong".

Having a fierce looking dog come up and wag his tail at you; admiring the lady cornetist at the opera house; finally accepting the fact that salads are a part of life; earnest high school debates on the perils and advantages of parcel post; getting a countrfeit dime and struggling with your conscience.

In the war and being bawled out, the second day, by a white-haired colonel for not saluting him; attacked by submarines off the coast of France and being sort of sorry for thousands of fish killed by depth bombs; developing a hatred for M. P.'s; learning to flop on your stomach when shells went by; getting out of the army and glad of it.

Pretending to be calm at the marriage license desk; working in a garden; finally deciding that grand opera, for you, is a bore; the night the baby was born and your conversation with another father at the hospital; watching a baby get older every day; and so—and so—and so.

Perhaps that's how you "grow up"—but you can't be sure.

Just Folks

OLD TROUBLE

Old Trouble's a servant to good men and brave,
But a tyrant to those it can fret and enslave.
Who runs in affright when it raps at the door
Will merely come back to a care or two more.
But stand up and battle it out to the end
And you'll find that Old Trouble was really your friend.

Old Trouble is ugly and fearsomely made.
He looks like a ghost, and if you are afraid
He'll boo you and shoo you right out of your place,
But if you've the courage to stand face to face
And throw back your shoulders and stick out your chin
You'll find the old monster is glad if you win.

The fact is Old Trouble's not all that he seems,
His job is to try out the dreamer of dreams,
To see what he's made of and what he can bear.
So he tests him with danger and doubt and despair.
But the fellow who thinks that life easy should be,
At the first sign of trouble is certain to flee.

Old Trouble's the maker of men, not their foe.
He's their chance in this world to display what they know;
The proof of their courage, the test of their worth;
Without him we might be as worms in the earth.
So let's stand when he threatens and see the fight through,
And learn from Old Trouble just what we can do.

"Well," said the Prof., after a minute's wait for something to happen," what do you represent?"

"I'm imitating a man going up in an elevator," was the quick response.

THE SICK PIG

It was on the boat going down to the West Indies. Among the passengers was a man so oily in his manners that the grease seemed to ooze out of his pores. To make his outstanding characteristic the more realistic, heavy jowls hung from his cheeks and if a plumb-line were dropped from his lower vest button, it would have stood out fully a foot and a half from his large square-toed shoes. But it was at the table that he showed himself true to form. His appetite was prodigious and as his cost of transportation included meals, he was having the picnic of his life. For two days the weather was fine. The sea looked like a delft blue dinner-plate and the small ship skimmed along as smoothly as a Duesenberg on Lincoln Highway. The third morning, whitecaps appeared on the surface of the sea, growing gradually larger until by nightfall they had developed into giant waves that pitched the boat about as though it were an abandoned beer-keg. Our unctuous fellow-passenger did not appear at lunch—the first meal he missed. Nor did he appear at any of the succeeding meals even after the sea again became as calm as a still water pond. Of course we missed him—he was so big in body and voice that his absence left a void. It was the ship's doctor who explained. "He's sick," he said, shaking his head sadly, although there appeared to be a suspicion of a smile playing under his straggly mustache, "he's a sick pig."

Search For Gold Creating New Army Of Adventurers

Conditions Favorable To Hunt For Precious Metal And Reports Of Discoveries Arouse Great Zeal In Various Sections

"Time will run back and fetch the age of gold," said Milton, the great English poet. Is a new gold fever starting today? Raising of buried bullion and clinking coins from the sea, opening of new mines, prospecting with better methods in abandoned shafts, searching possible claims, all are going on at the present time, and the spectacle is arousing much interest in many lands.

"Probably more men than ever before are prospecting for gold, not only in this country, but in other lands," states the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, listing new activities in this field: "One recent dispatch told of a rich discovery in a remote part of Asia. News from Cordova, Alaska, now announces the discovery of a gold-bearing ledge, described as the 'biggest in the world'. This ledge, in the Copper river railroad area, was uncovered, it is believed, by a change in the course of the stream. Nevada is excited over a gold quartz discovery at Summit Springs, thirty miles south of Hawthorne, once a flourishing mining camp. Other strikes have been reported from time to time." The Star-News concludes: "Some of them may have merit back of their claims, and others may be purely promotional in character. While such reports should not always be accepted at face value, yet there is good reason to watch developments. That out of this thorough search of Mother Earth's rugged bosom there should come worth while finds, perhaps bonanza locations, need surprise no one."

Laying the boom in gold mining to the fact that low costs of food, wages and materials make it profitable, the SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW remarks: "Now that an ounce of gold will buy so much more of everything than it could buy a few years ago, ores then unprofitable are inviting now. The United States Department of Commerce calculates that in 1931 gold enjoyed a purchasing power approximately 40 per cent above 1926 levels, and its buying power is even greater now than it was in 1931. So gold mining is taking a boom all over the world."

"The old days of romantic gold mining are long since dead, but gold fever can never die," thinks the BOISE IDAHO STATESMAN, taking cognizance of the reported gold strike of rich proportions in northern Idaho, though it discounts predections of a bonanza. "Nevertheless," declares this paper, "the temptation to contemplate the advantages which would accrue were a series of fabulously rich stakes made, are too great to resist. Money would be brought into the state, employment furnished to the jobless, our whole industrial life would be given a powerful stimulant. Nor would the benefits be confined to Idaho. A new source of gold pouring into the country's economic structure would constitute a powerful factor in business recovery. With thousands of prospectors scouring the hills, there is always a chance, remote though that chance may be."

Referring particularly to the mines in Alaska, the NASHVILLE BANNER declares: "In the light of the history of its purchase, it is especially interesting to see indications from time to time that the real value of Alaska to the United States is increasing as we learn more of it. When Secretary Seward bought Alaska from Russia in 1867 for $7,200,000 in gold, there was a great outcry on the part of the indignant public. The territory was popularly referred to as 'Seward's Folly' and people said there was no accounting for the senseless extravagance in which public officials would indulge and so on. Recent geological surveys in Alaska have emphasized several facts about Alaska that make the biting criticism of Secretary Seward in days gone by all the more amusing."

"The gold trails of Forty Nine and later years once more shake to the tread of booted prospectors, and stream beds forgotten since the days of Cripple Creek's glory are being combed for overlooked vestiges of the wealth they once held," says the MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL, as it pictures the bearded and grizzled optimists who for half a century and longer have haunted the valleys of California, taking out just enough gold here and there to yield a meager living, now joined by an army of younger men, most of whom know little or nothing of gold or of mining." The Journal points out that "it is not generally known that the world today is producing more gold annually than at any time between 1870 and 1908," and suggests that "the higher its value, in terms of commodities or labor, the more of it will be gotten out."

"One good result of the 'depression' is renewal of the search for gold, and all over the belt of North Carolina prospectors are pecking away and bringing up ores of varying value, some of content giving promise of profitable returns," announced the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER, as it praises the metal of that state—"North Carolina gold is said to be 'yellower' than the gold produced in California, and what's more, the ores here assay a heavier production of the yellow metal to the ton than any ores known. Our people walk over gold mines every day. What can be done to bring up the ores and transfer the gold from the ground into the pockets of the people? If the government lends a hand to the West, it cer-

SPEAKING OF PROHIBITION

"Hear ye, Hear ye, Hear ye! Order in court!"

Magistrate Daly in Magistrate Court, Ridgewood, Queens County, New York, was on the bench.

The clerk called the first name on the docket.

"Whiskey."

Someone in the back row tittered.

A second time he called out.

"Whiskey."

But there seemed to be no whiskey in the courtroom.

The clerk glanced at the second name on the docket.

"Seltzer!" He howled.

"What is this, a gag?" asked Magistrate Daly.

He laughed. Everybody laughed. They thought the clerk was having his own little joke in his own little way.

Then the docket was produced.

They found that Nathan Whiskey of 117-07 107th avenue, Ridgewood Hills, had been accused of passing a traffic signal.

And Sam Seltzer of 914 51st street, Brooklyn, was charged with the same thing. Maybe Whiskey and Seltzer will get together some time—but not in court.

WORTHWHILE THINGS

Isn't it true that you want so many things that those you can procure do not give you any especial pleasure?

Always it is the thing just out of reach that you think would give you the most joy.

You have had the experience of desiring something which you have gained.

After a time it seems commonplace and ordinary—you tired of it.

You long for something better and being disappointed because you were unable to procure it you would not allow anything to take its place.

Isn't this childish?

It is possible for you to command about so much.

Others are able to get more because they have the knack, the know-how, the desire, so strongly that they are willing to submerge interests alien in order to possess it.

But you have divided your time, thought, attention and energy in too many different ways.

Consequently instead of one objective you have had many and reached none.

You do a lot of wishing but not enough work to gain your desires.

Everything worthwhile requires effort of some kind.

France Declares U. S. Help Necessary For Restoration Of The World's Prosperity

By PIERRE-ETIENNE FLANDIN
Former French Finance Minister.

For a long time nations believed that they could remain isolated from each other and become immune against the contagion of the world crisis. Experience has proved the contrary, and it is to be hoped that they will now agree to look straight at the results. . . .

It is useless to believe that a miracle, with a magic stroke of the wand, will re-establish prosperity. We shall not be able to get out of the crisis except by employing efficient remedies.

To speak of international peace and and cooperation while restricting in a thousand ways the free circulation of goods, of capital and of individuals, is about the same as if one boasted of the liberty of people who are kept imprisoned.

The Lausanne conference has made European opinion take a great step forward. It will be continued by a committee which will study the question of the restoration of the countries of central Europe and by an economic conference which must resolve the problem of the reduction of the external indebtedness of certain nations and the more general problem of international economic relations.

However preoccupied American opinion may be with its own internal problems, I trust that it will associate itself with this work which is indispensable for the restoration of the world's business.

Detroit Gets Big Loan; R. T. D. Delays Action On Request Of Gov. Pinchot

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A $1,800,000 loan to Detroit by the Reconstruction Finance Corp. last night will provide substantial food for more than 80,000 residents of the Michigan city who have been on a milk and bread diet since Monday.

The 80,000 on Detroit's charity rolls were reduced to bread and milk Monday when the city's relief credit was stopped and available supplies were exhausted.

The $1,800,000 loan announced last night is expected to carry Detroit's relief work through the next two months, at expiration of which Detroit plans to ask for an additional $9,000,000 loan for the balance of this year.

No Free Hand Policy.

A few hours before granting the Detroit loan the Finance Corp. through former Senator Atlee Pomerene of Cleveland, chairman, proved its announced determination against handing out the $300,000,000 federal fund for direct relief with a free hand.

It flatly turned down the plea of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennslyvania for an immediate $10,000,000 loan for destitution relief in the Keystone state. The refusal, Pomerene, announced, was because of failure of the Pennsylvania legislature and various political units to do everything within their power to take care of their own needs.

"It is our belief that, on proper showing, we should extend some relief to the state of Pennsylvania, but it must be borne in mind that we have funds entrusted to our board which are to be expended, not in lieu of state or local relief, but to be supplemental thereto, if, when and as necessary," Pomerene said.

Charges Failure of Duty.

"After a full hearing we feel persuaded that the legislature of the state of Pennsylvania, and its several political sub-divisions, have not done their full duty with respect to the furnishing of funds for relief purposes. We shall defer action with regard to relief for Pennsylvania until we know what the legislature will do for the relief of its own people."

Detroit's application was presented to the corporation board by Guy A. Durgan, president of the city's welfare commission; W. S. Carpenter, state welfare director, and Clarence E. Page, assistant city counsel. They brought a certificate of need from the governor of Michigan and the mayor of Detroit.

The governor certified that the $1,800,000 "represents sums that are needed at once over and beyond any amounts that are now available or can be made available to the city of Detroit through private contributions, taxation, the sale of its obligations to private purchasers, or from any other legal source."

Time For Further Plans.

"The amount is made available to the city of Detroit at this time," the corporation board announced last night, "to enable the city to meet the immediate emergency and to give time for the development of further state and municipal relief plans.

"The state of Michigan, according to the supporting data, through its unemployment and relief commission, which was organized in October, 1931, has carried on a work relief program. A state highway building program of $11,000,000 was inaugurated."

Deniel of the Pennsylvania loan was a severe blow to Gov. Pinchot, who had announced that in addition to the immediate $10,000,000 loan sought Thursday he later would request another $35,000,000 for Pennsylvania.

The Detroit loan is the third approval by the corporation under the $300,000,000 direct relief title of the new federal relief act. The first was $3,000,000 to Illinois, chiefly for use in Chicago, and the second, announced last night was $852,662 for Mahoning, Stark, Summit and Lorain counties in Ohio.

New Bill Aid To B. & L. Association

Enabling Act Passed By Legislature And Signed By Governor

The Pennsylvania League of Building & Loan Associations has been instrumental in securing the passage of loan legislation which will be of particular interest to building and loan associations throughout the state.

Building and loan associations of the state of Pennsylvania were prohibited from enjoying the benefits which might accrue to them by either the reconstruction finance corporation or the home loan bill which were passed by the United States congress at its last session. This was necessarily true by reason of the fact that Pennsylvania associations could not rehypothecate their mortgages.

Under the federal law, loans to building and loan associations had to be made on the security of mortgages held by individual associations. Therefore, according to the law of the state of Pennsylvania, as interpreted by the attorney-general, Pennsylvania associations could not enjoy the benefits of the national remedial measures.

The legislative committee of the Pennsylvania league has been particularly active in this matter and has had some one present at Harrisburg for every meeting of the legislature which met at the special call of the governor, during the past few weeks. The league has endorsed and stood behind legislation which is for the benefit of every building and loan association in the state, and its actions were rewarded when on Monday night, July 25, both the senate and the house passed enabling legislation. The building and loan associations of the state of Pennsylvania can now secure help from federal agencies by putting up their mortgages as security.

With the passage of the legislation in the state of Pennsylvania, building and loans will be eligible to secure funds from governmental agencies which will undoubtedly help the situation.

On July 28, Governor Pinchot affixed his signature to the bill, making it a law.

This bill is considered one of the most constructive pieces of legislation that has come out of the legislature of Pennsylvania for many years.

Swiss Scientist Ready To Soar To Sky Second Time

Professor Auguste Piccard, Ready For New Attempt To Measure Stratosphere

(International News Service)

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 5.—The unexpected speed with which his preparatory work has progressed may enable Professor Auguste Piccard, noted Swiss scientist, to take off on Saturday on his second flight into the stratosphere, ten miles above the surface of the earth, he revealed to International News Service Thursday.

"I am satisfied with our progress," he said. "I find that the delicate instruments with which I shall measure the cosmic rays in the stratosphere are all in good condition after the trip from Brussels.

"I am confident of success. I can foresee no difficulties beyond finding a good landing place after the flight is over. I do not want my instruments to be damaged when the balloon comes down. But it is difficult to pick out a satisfactory spot from ten miles in the air."

tainly should extend a helping hand to the South," claims this paper.

The WALLA WALLA DAILY BULLETIN exclaims: "Gold! Gold! The report spreads like the wind, and already scores, even hundreds of restless men have shouldered packs with their crude mining equipment and started the overland rush to the wild country that holds out the attractive diggings to the few who are fortunate. But how different the picture of today will be from that of decades ago when Walla Walla was at a high pitch under the contagious fever of the fortune that lay over the hills.

Not only from the dark recesses of the earth is gold being taken, but the sea is being forced to give up its long-inundated treasures. To this the APPLETON POST-CRESCENT calls attention, saying: "Had one listened intently the other day to the soft eastern breezes there might have been heard a cry that has lighted the fires of human passion and greed ever since commerce set the mark of selfishness upon the yellow metal. It was the cry of 'Gold, gold, the Egypt's gold at last' as the first gold bullion and coin was raised from that sunken liner off the coast of France. After four years of effort, gold and silver bullion and British sovreigns valued at millions of dollars have been uncovered and are now piled in heaps upon the salvage ship Artiglio's deck with every heave of the grab." Noting that "new methods in deep sea diving developed by the Artiglio's crew promise interesting possibilities for undersea exploration," this paper suggests: "Many ships and countless millions lie about the muddy bottom of the seas. What other riches or sources of adventure the ocean depths may hold, no man knows."

A similar effort is to be made in the Atlantic ocean, sixty-five miles off Cape Henry, where lies the Merida, which sank on May 12, 1911. The BALTIMORE EVENING SUN advises that "what makes the salvage of the vessel an enterprise worth considerable effort is the fact that its passenger list included some of the wealthiest persons in all Mexico and they were carrying to what they hoped would be safety some four millions in money, gold and silver bullion and jewels."

Cocos Island in the South Pacific is again luring gold hunters, notes the ATLANTIC JOURNAL, referring to expeditions to "that olden haunt of pirates in the South Pacific," in search of "treasure fabled to be worth between twenty-five and seventy-five million dollars—a treasure that has long proved a will-o'-the-wisp", according to The Journal. "But," comments this paper, analyzing the persistence of the search, "it isn't the gold merely that these smitten hearts desire; it's the sea wind, the lonely beach, the forest tangle, the very hardship and danger that lift life above humdrum in their foretaste if not in reality. Men will ever be hunters and sailors; and the wilder the chase, the more perilous the voyage, the better they will fancy it."

Sign Painter Re-Names Town

(International News Service)

EMAUS, Pa., Aug. 5.—The carelessness of a railroad sign painter, or perhaps his ignorance of the scriptures, is blamed by pious residents of this own for the omission of the second "M" in the name which God-fearing settlers chose from the Bible to give to the little community they builded in the forests of the picturesque Lehigh valley.

Older residents of the town still cling to the Biblical designation of "Emmaus," although official maps and the railroad station sign use the 'Emaus."

A creek which separates the village from a more densely populated section of the valley, also is piously called the Jordan.

Dinner Pail Hook Was Dinosaur Fossil

(International News Service)

ALMA, Colo., Aug. 5—For several weeks miners hung their dinner pails and canteens over a protuberance in the mine tunnel. One day E. M. Tiffany, a mining engineer, chanced to see the hook and became greatly excited.

Excavations revealed the fossilized form of a dinosaur, which scientists say, lived in Colorado about 95 million years ago. It is the first dinosaur remains ever to be found in a gold mine. The remains show that the animal was 16 feet long.

Miners named the creature "Genevieve" because they believe she was the mother of several smaller dinorauri whose remains were also found in the mine.

Plan To Protect Sale Of Genuine Home Grown Crops

Farmers May Obtain Official Sign By Meeting Conditions

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5—The public has tolerated misrepresentation at roadside markets long enough according to a joint statement issued by the bureau of markets, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania State Association of Markets in which is outlined a plan for State supervision over bona fide farmers' roadside markets.

The statement emphasizes the fact that hucksters who buy produce at terminal markets and then posing as farmers, sell it at roadside stands along the State highways in the country have done considerable harm to roadside markets operated by farmers. To counteract this influence the plan for State supervision and regulation of roadside markets was drafted.

The plan provides that each roadside market which is entered shall be inspected and approved by the State Bureau of Markets and agree to subject its methods of doing business to the bureau's regulations. After this has been done a metal sign, two by three feet in size, painted on both sides in gold background with blue border and blue lettering is leased to the farm roadside market operator.

This sign bears the words "Pennsylvania Farm Products" in large letters and in the center, a design of William Penn holding a keystone within which are the words: "An Approved Farm Roadside Market under Supervision of Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture." A registry number of each market is painted on the sign so that consumers will have a means of official identification of each market.

On the same plant there are four flowers about ready to bloom and 22 others partly developed.

Mrs. Fox states that no flowers appeared on the plant for five years.

Governor Tells How Capitol Might Soon Join Ruins Of Aztecs

Plant Life Brought By Birds Found Growing On Capital Dome

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—If suddenly the population were to desert the state, Pennsylvania's $20,000,000 group of capitol buildings in Harrisburg in 25 years would begin to look like ruined Mayan and Aztec temples in Central America and Mexico. Birds would be chiefly responsible, Governor Pinchot said today.

"Workmen repairing the roof of the capitol found a score of trees and bushes on the dome," said the governor. "A two-foot ailanthus was strongly entrenched. Sumacs sent their roots through joints in the tiles. Eventually these growths would have opened a way for water. When water freezes nothing can withstand its expansive pressure. So if nothing had been done about it the dome would have been a ruin in a comparatively short time—simply because birds carried seeds to the roof.

"Mayans suddenly deserted their cities. What happened in a small way on the dome of the capitol happened in earnest in Central America. Eventually vegetable growths brought the ruin found today. That is what would be found in Pennsylvania in 25 or 50 years if all of us went away."

Some of the growths found on the dome are to be replanted on the capitol grounds, according to Secretary Hanna of the department of property and supplies. Meanwhile workmen try to eliminate all crevices in which seeds might lodge.

REPORTS KILLING OF 102 WATERDOGS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—Killing of 102 waterdogs in the lower waters of Black Lick creek, Cambria county, has been reported to the fish commission by Lincoln Lender, fish warden at Bellwood, near Altoona.

Almost without exception the ungainly creatures were large, and in most instances females ready to spawn, Lender said. They were taken in one night by gigging under his directions.

Examination of the stomach contents of the salamanders revealed that some of them had been eating frog spawn and creek chubs. Chubs measuring five inches were found. A number of the stomachs were empty.

DANGEROUS HOURS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—Most motor vehicle accidents in the first six months of the year occurred between 4 P. M. and 5 P. M., the Bureau of Highway Patrol and Safety reports. They totaled 1623, 83 being fatal, 1065 non-fatal and 475 property damage only. Six to 7 A. M., was the safest hour with 264 accidents reported. Fourteen were fatal, 152 non-fatal and 98 property damage only.

Why Boil Away COSTLY FRUIT JUICE?

ASKS THIS CHAMPION JELLY MAKER

. . . Why not turn every last bit into delicious tasting jam . . . and thus save 2½¢ per glass?

BY Mrs. J. O. Schon
NEBRASKA STATE JELLY CHAMPION

"This year's fruit is the finest and cheapest we have had in years. And I know that hundreds of women reading this newspaper are going to take advantage of this fact and put up jams and jellies for the long winter months ahead.

"And I hope they will all use Certo! For Certo will save them, just as it saves me, a really considerable amount of money.

"With Certo, you see, only 1 minute's hard boiling time is necessary to make jelly from any fruit . . . and for most fruits even less.

"And thus hardly a single bit of juice has time to boil away in wasteful steam . . . with the result that you get one-half again more glasses from the same amount of fruit. Last year this saved me from 2 to 5¢ on every glass of jam or jelly that I made.

"And, of course, this Certo one-minute boil saves considerable time too. Indeed, I find it an easy matter to make a full batch of jelly in 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit juice and sugar on to cook."

Mrs. Schon's Certo-made jellies and jams have been awarded an almost endless succession of State Fair prizes during the past few seasons, for flavor, texture and color. In the last three years she has won 15 prizes at the Nebraska State Fair. And she is only one of the 5,000,000 jelly makers who are using this magical product.

Why don't you do as Mrs. Schon suggests and order a supply of Certo today with your fruit and other jelly making supplies? Simply follow carefully the Certo recipes that come in the booklet attached to every Certo bottle . . . and you can't go wrong. Don't delay. Get your bottle of Certo from your grocer today. BUILDING ROADS DISTRIBUTES JOBS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—Work relief in Pennsylvania from the angle of road building was emphasized today by Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis, who pointed out that the department's payroll in June almost doubled that of the same month last year.

"During June, 74,506 pay checks were distributed as compared with 29,334 issued during June of last year," Secretary Lewis said.

A record price of $8,280 was paid in London recently for a picture by Devis, "The Love Song," signed and dated 1749.

LAMONT HEADS STEEL GROUP

To Be Elected By Institute After Resigning From President's Cabinet

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—Robert P. Lamont, who has just retired from President Hoover's cabinet, will be elected president of the American Iron and Steel Institute on August 18, it as announced today by Chas. M. Schwab, chief executive officer of the institute.

Announcement of Lamont's selection as head of the steel institute follows reports that this important steel trade body had far reaching plans for extending its influence in the steel trade.

Lamont served as president of the American Steel Foundries for many years before he resigned to enter the Hoover cabinet as secretary of commerce. Besides his association with the Steel Foundries Company, Lamont, before severing all his private business connections on entering the cabinet, was director of a large number of industrial concerns including the First National Bank of Chicago, Armour and Company, American Radiator Company, Montgomery Ward and Company, International Harvester and the Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

BUTTERMILK DRINKER WIPES OUT PROFITS

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Aug. 5.—A sign in the window of a local confectionery, advertising "all the buttermilk you can drink for a nickel," was taken literally by William Higgenson of 1116 Merchant street, who dropped in for a drink. Higgenson drank more than a gallon, 18 glasses to be exact, before he reached the limit of his capacity.

"It was good buttermilk," Higgenson explained to awe-struck witnesses.

"It almost wiped out the day's profits," the confectioner complained.

READY FOR EMERGENCY

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal—No doubt political opponents of Angelo J. Rossi, mayor of San Francisco, will never be tempted now to enlarge their controversies beyond the conversational stage. The mayor recently took a boxing lesson from Jack Dempsey, the great mauler, and accepted two set of autographed gloves. "Just ready for any emergency," his honor smiled.

MODEL PRISON AT LEWISBURG NEARLY READY

Expect That First Prisoners Will Be In New Institution In Six Weeks

(International News Service)

LEWISBURG, Pa., Aug., 5.—America's model prison, the new federal penitentiary here, will swing open its gates for the first contingent of prisoners within the next six weeks. It will accommodate 1200 inmates.

Warden H. C. Hill and staff are making preparations to begin their task of rehabilitating the prisoners into "social" beings, and to return them to society as new men.

The new prison perhaps is the best equipped of any similar institution in the world to carry on social reform among the inmates. The prison walls enclose 27 acres. Outside, stretching across Union county's green hills, are almost 1000 more acres owned by the government which will be farmed by the prisoners, supplying a large part of the institution's need for vegetables and green goods, fruit and dairy products.

A large part of the land is already under cultivation and crops are now being harvested by hired farmers, assisted by several of the 31 guards who arrived at Lewisburg last week.

A seven-foot wire fence enclose the "farm". Guards will supervise the work within.

An adequate staff of teachers will be included in the prison personnel. They will hold regular sessions, teaching according to the previous schooling of the prisoners. During the first year, most of the inmates' time will be spent on the grading of the grounds and the building of roads.

Afterwards they will concentrate on an industrial program which is being worked out by prison authorities.

It is possible that a quota of prisoners will be removed here from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

An appropriation of $3,000,000 was made for the construction and equipment of the prison. Already $400,000 of that figure has been returned to the U. S. Treasury and it is hoped to make additional savings. Decreased building costs and wise supervision in the construction made the saving possible, officials said.

Former Students Of Reynoldstown Gather On Tuesday

Twenty-Fifth Annual Reunion August 9 At Old School Building

Reynoldstowners will get together for their 25th annual reunion next Tuesday, August 9, at the school building where they spent many a happy hour together.

A lively committee is rounding up last minute plans for this event of events—but no preparations are really needed to make this reunion successful. All it needs is a big crowd—and that it always has been able to get.

Since this will mark a quarter century of Reynoldstown school reunions, it will in all probability be bigger and better than ever. Members of the committee are receiving word from many out-of-towners, who were sent invitations, stating in enthusiastic terms that they "will be there."

The business meeting at 2 o'clock will be followed by a picnic supper in the school house.

Borrows Children For Hard Luck Tale

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 5.—Katherine Minnich, 65, worked a clever mendicant scheme profitably here until she ran afoul of the law.

She had been receiving food from the Associated Charities but started begging in the business district.

"Borrowing" two children,, she went the round giving a hard luck story and stating that the charities refused her aid. She gathered a big supply of groceries from generous storekeepers and housewives.

Her mistake was made when she shopped at the home of a charity worker and gave the usual yarn. It failed to register, of course, and soon Katherine found herself in the cell section at city hall. She was later placed in the county home.

Peddlers Must Pay Stiff Fee

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—It's going to cost hawkers and peddlers a pretty penny to do business on Lewistown borough streets.

House-to-house hawkers will be required to get a license costing $40 a month. Canvassers will have to lay 5 on the line daily before they can do their sales talking.. Farmers doing a curb market business and established borough firms are exempt from the fee requirements of the new ordinance.

UNITED STATES INCREASES LEAD IN OLYMPICS

Records Fall As Contests Proceed

Four Hundred Meters Race Overshadows Program Of Today

FRANCE EDGES UP SOMEWHAT IN RACE

By TED SMITS
International News Service Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5—Four hundred meters of blazing speed and soul-trying courage overshadowed the Olympic games today as the athletes of 38 nations set about their tasks by land and sea.

The "400" finals were the lure of the Olympic stadium. If form runs true the race lies between Ben Eastman and Bill Carr of the United States and Godfrey Lionel Rampling, the stout-hearted son of England.

The final in the 5,000 meters, the start of the Decathlon, the sword competition in the fencing arena, Greco-Roman wrestling, the swimming event of the Pentathlon and the opening of yachting competition on the broad Pacific were forced into a secondary position by the glamor of the 400 meter dash.

U. S. Increases Lead

The United States continued to add to its overwhelming total of unofficial points, with 283½, but France edged forward with 99, and Italy, with 69½, moved into third place ahead of Germany and England, both with 59½.

The onslaught on records was undiminished, and of 20 track and field events completed by both women and men, 17 new Olympic records have been created, seven of which were world marks as well and two were ties with world records.

New champions were:

Javelin throw—Matti Jarvinen, Finland—238 feet 1 inches (new Olympic record.)

Hop, step and jump—C. Nambu, Japan—51 feet 7 inches (new Olympic and new world's record)

80 meter hurldes—women—"Babe" Didrikson, United States—:11.7 (new Olympic and new world's record)

1500 meter run—Luigi Deccali, Italy—3:51.2 (new Olympic record)

Women's foils fencing—Miss Ellen Preiss, Austria

100 kilometer road race—Italy (individual winner, A. Pavesi, Italy, 2:28:05.6)

Miss Didrikson Wins

It remained for "Babe" Didrikson the pride of Texas, to save Thursday from being a foreign rout. This lanky Miss burned the cinders to outlunge Mrs. Evelyn Hall of the United States at the tap and send the stars and strikes up for its only trip to the victory pole in the track and field events.

Miss M. Clark of South Africa was third and Miss S. Shaller of the United States fourth in the event.

Matti Jarvinen, the giant from the north, outclassed the field to win the javelin with two team mates M. Sippala and E. Penttila, pressing close behind giving Finland three flags on the Peristyle, with M. Oda of Japan, the defending champion, eliminated in the trials, C. Nambu, his companion, went on to win the hop, step and jump, for Japan and break all records in the act.

The best America could do in the javelin was fifth place which went to Lee Bartlett with 211 feet 6 inches, and sixth place to Ken Churchill with 207 feet 5 7-8 inches. The three Finns together with Wiemann of Germany all shattered the old Olympic record of 218 feet 6 1-8 inches.

Courageous Race

Sol Furth in sixth place, was the only American to reach the hop, step and jump finals, which saw Japan annex its first track and field championship of the present games and in addition pick up a third place with the efforts of K. Oshima.

The 1,500 meters was won by the means of a last minute spurt of Luigi Recalli, of Italy, who ground down J. Cornes of England at the tape.

The race was made memorable by the courage of "Pen" Hallowell of the United States and Phil Edwards of Canada. Hallowell finished sixth and Edwards, drove through for a third place. Glen Cunningham, the Kansas boy running for the United States, was fourth.

The 400 meter preliminaries and quarter-finals went as expected, with Eastman, Carr and Gordon all of the United States, winning their second round heats in the respectable times of :48.8: :48.4 and :48.6 respectively. Carr and Eastman ran under wraps and Stonely, of England provided an impressive, easy performance.

Honors in the third event of the modern Pentathlon went to Mayo of the United States scoring 20 hits and 197 points in the shooting tests placing him close to the top.

Opposition Here To Proposed Bill

Measure Would Transfer Collection Of Inheritance Taxes To Harrisburg

Concern over a bill introduced in the state legislature by Chester H. Rhodes, which would take the collection of inheritance taxes away from counties and transfer it to the internal revenue department at Harrisburg, is being manifested here. It is claimed that the bill, if passed, would add greatly to the expense of widows and others in settling estates. It is further contended that it is but another attempt to centralize power in Harrisburg, of which there is now entirely too much, in the opinion of many.

One of the obnoxious features relates to safety deposit boxes that might be held by decedents. Under the bill the revenue department must be notified upon the death of a person holding a box, and it cannot be opened until permission is obtained from the state department.

As soon as letters of administration or letters testamentary are taken out on an estate, the testator or administrator must send a certified copy of the same, together with a list of the assets or liabilities of the decedent. Then the department of revenue must appraise the property and levy the tax. This would be an additional expense upon the widow or other beneficiaries.

Where appeals are taken it must be done in the Daughin county court. This would mean the additional expense of taking witnesses to Harrisburg. At present these appeals are heard in the local court.

Under the present system there is a local appraiser for the city and one for the county, and the appraisements are made from the records in the register and recorder's office without the additional expense to the estate that would be entailed by the proposed bill. The bill is looked upon as a vicious piece of proposed legislation its only effect being to centralize power in Harrisburg and make it more expensive to heirs in the settlement of estates.

The bill is now in the hands of the Ways and Means committee where local residents hope it will be permitted to died a natural death.

They didn't take their money to New York and see who could build the highest building. They helped finance small manufacturing concerns that put men to work in our community. Arbitration On Firemen's Fund

Council Agrees To Abide By Decision Of Arbitration Board

ASKS STATE TO PAY MONEY DUE

Council met today in formal session at the city building and adopted a resolution which requested the state to pay to the city monies alleged due New Castle for the past two years from the two percent tax on foreign fire insurance.

After this measure had been adopted council authorized the Paid Firemen's association and the Volunteer Firemen's Relief association to select a board of arbitration to decide the problem as to which body the monies belong.

Council indicated they would abide by the decision of the board of arbiters which would be organized as follows: Paid firemen to select three members, Volunteers to pick another three members and the six members to name the seventh member.

Council did not state how much money is due from the state and their action followed the warning of Attorney Charles Matthews, Jr., counsel for the Paid Firemen's association that a bill has been proposed at Harrisburg which would take the money due here.

The measure, according to Matthews proposed that the money be placed in the general revenue fund and that it then would be distributed to the various subdivisions of the state. "If this bill passes the money is lost to New Castle" Matthew asserted.

He advised the city to make a formal demand upon the state for the money. His advice was accepted. Mayor Mayne suggested that the arbitration board decide the question as to whom the city should give the money.

The mayor intimated that businessmen could be fairer than members of council as council, he alleged, "is more or less a political body, whether or not it is admitted." He suggested that six members be named and the six select a seventh.

Council authorized each association to name three, excluding city officials, and the seventh shall be named by the six members. Solons indicated the board's decision would be acceptable to members of council.

Attorney Matthews said he would place the proposal before his clients and that counsel for the Volunteers also would be advised as to council's desire and then it would be up to the two bodies to declare whether or not they favored arbitration.

Matthews said counsel for the Volunteers and he interpreted the law regarding the body deserving of the money differently.

He said that the Paid Firemen had received a charter and could pay pensions and death benefits with the money if awarded them.

Matthews declared the Volunteers could not receive the money and pay a death benefit or put a volunteer on pnsion.

Under the Paid Firemen's association plan the pension fund would come from the two percent foreign fire insurance tax and not one cent would come from taxation here, Matthews declared.

Giant Fish Bowl Is Big Attraction In Kansas City

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 5.—The Board of Trade building here now has what is believed to be one of the largest fish bowls in the Middle West.

Each summer the roof of the fourth floor set-back of the building, a space approximately 40 by 60 feet, is flooded to a depth of from 2 to 5 inches with water to catch dust blowing in the air.

This spring some efficient "steno" decided that there was too much water going to waste and brought her gold fish to work and put them in the tank. A. W. Smith, manager of the Postal Telegraph offices here, thought the idea was sound and added fish in the collection.

Now virtually every person in the building has an entry, most of them distinctive types or breeds so that individuals may point out their separate property.

The janitor is the recipient of a collection each week for caring for the fish when the aquarium is drained and filled with fresh water.

The addition of ducks or geese is probable within a short time, the need for such animals being shown by the amount of grain that is tossed out the windows to fall into the water.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Pennsylvania led the nation in the number of cities maintaining public recreation programs during 1931, according to the year book of the National Recreation Association, which has just been published. Summer negligees are chic in printed chiffon. Colorful allover floral patterns are used which make the fabric look heavy and opaque.

Ohio Woman Finds Daughter Missing Seventeen Years

(International News Service)

FINDLAY, O., Aug. 5—A pilgrimage into the hills of southern Ohio has found a long lost daughter for Mrs. Bessie Wolf of Findlay, who had not seen the girl since 1915.

Moved by another love Mrs. Wolf recently went to Portsmouth to trace her daughter.

In Otway, a nearby village, she found the girl. Although the daughter, Mrs. Genva Fletcher now, was only a few months old when the two were last separated the mother easily recognized the girl, she said.

Mrs. Fletcher, now 18, was completely bewildered by the visit as she had never been told that her foster-parents had adopted her.

Mrs. Wolf explained that she and her daughter were separated after she and her husband had domestic difficulties. Unable to support her five children, she placed the baby girl in the hands of another family.

Armored War Tank Now A Bungalow

(International News Service)

NANCY, France, Aug. 5.— One wartime tank has been turned up near here as an instrument of charity.

It is serving as the bungalow for a poor family.

The slits from which once protruded three-inch guns are windows and beneath them have been created geranium boxes.

The caterpillar treads of the erstwhile death monster are now trellises for wisteria. Entrance to the parallelogram habitation is through an arch formed by corrugated iron, known to dugout builders as BX-2.

This particular tank was manned by six men but its new owners find sleeping accomodations for ten.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 5.—Heavy artillery guns boomed defiance today to the several diplomatic gestures which indicated a peaceful settlement of the Chaco dispute might be affected.

Colonel Pena, commander of the fourth division of the Bolivian army, ordered a bulletin posted in Tarija announcing he had begun a heavy artillery bombardment of the entire Pilcomayo sector of the Chaco.

Both Bolivia and Paraguay, according to advices, continued mobilization and the dispatch of troops to the Chaco despite Bolivia's announcement that she was ready for arbitration.

The Bolivian government announced it would accept the Pan-American plan for a suspension of hostilities in order to permit further consideration of the question, but demanded that the neutral countries declare the armistice on the basis of present positions in the Chaco rather than on the basis of positions of June 1, as the Washington note asked.

This offer to arbitrate immediately was attacked at Asuncion, capital of Paraguay, where a high government official charged it as lacking in guarantee and showing evidence Bolivia still intended to campaign in the Chaco.

Blind May Solve Cross-Words By New Invention

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Relief for the terrible emptiness of the blind was provided by a London doctor, who has made an invention whereby the blind can do cross word puzzles and acrostics.

The inventor is Dr. F. W. Alexander, a former medical officer, and the inspiration came to him as he passed a laundry.

The invention is based on the Braille reading system for the blind, and is composed of a laundry-board studded with nails denoting groups of the alphabet. Numerous games can be played on this device which is so simple and yet so great a solace to the blind who long for pastimes.

McAlpin, who has been using the adopted name of Hicks, said he is 91 years of age and is a full-fledged Comanche Indian chief.

The burial of his mother took place more than a half century ago. He believes that his sister, Aline, married Williary Terry, a railroad employe here, and that it was on a visit to Terry's home that his mother died.

Buggies And Mules Are Sold For Song

(International News Service)

LEBANON, Pa., Aug. 5.—Buggies may have been the "thing" in the good old days, but they don't rate much at present if one is to judge from prices commanded at an auction here.

The "carriages' brought from five cents up—and not "up" very much, at that.

A "black beauty" didn't fare much better in the market place, selling for $10. A pair of mules went from the auction block for $25.

L. J. Gilbert was the auctioneer and C. A. Kleinfelter was clerk of the sale. The auctioned goods were the personal property of Ephraim C. Weirick, North Lebanon township. The auction was conducted under the auspices of Deputy Sheriff Howard Yawn.

Heavy Market Demand Today

Leading Stocks Jump From 1 To 7 Points In Market, Ticker Runs Behind

WHEAT JUMPS ONE TO TWO CENTS

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug., 5.—The stock market continued its spectacular recovery today. Leading stocks jumped 1 to nearly 7 points as another flood of buying came into the list.

So heavy was the demand in the first hour that the high speed ticker fell four minutes behind.

Wheat jumped 1 to 2 cents a bushel and Cotton 75 cents a bale. Sugar and silver were higher. Butter and eggs went to new 1932 tops and hogs improved.

Farm Implement shares were the day's market features. The Volatile Case Threshing rebounded violently against the shorts and rose nearly 7 pounds.

Gains Widespread

International Harvester jumped 5. Mail order shares were strong with Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck were in big demand at higher prices.

Gains of 2 to 4 points were widespread among the leaders and stocks with small capitalizations. These included Western Union, Westing house, U. S. Steel preferred, Bethlehem Steel preferred, Allied Chemical, American Can, International Business Machines and Auburn.

American telephone ran up above 101 for a gain of nearly 3 points. Steel common was strong but failed to make any spectacular gain.

Oils came in for renewed activity in the early afternoon and, under the leadership of Standard of New Jersey, many petroleum issues went to new highs for the year.

Rails were short but outside of an early flurry failed to figure prominently in the trading. Gains of 1 to 2 points were spread throughout the carrier list with Atchison, N. Y. Central and Union Pacific outstanding.

Consolidated Gas set the pace for the utilities, followed closely by Public Service of New Jersey and North American.

A run-up in International Silver featured the metal group. Food stocks were firm but did little comparable with the rest of the list.

Real Fish Story Of Tagged Pike That Swam Home

(International News Service)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 5.—Even the wall-eyed pike has a "homing sense," officials and workers of the state Department of Conservation are inclined to believe.

Two months ago, a wall-eyed pike was taken in a trap net set in the Cheboygan river and a metal tag bearing the number "14011" placed on it. The fish was then released in Crooked Lake, thirty miles away.

And now the same fish has been taken again in the trap net in Cheboygan river. It was identified by its tag. To make the trip back to the net, "No. 14011" had to cross Crooked Lake, swim down Crooked river, across Burt Lake, down Indian river, across Mullet Lake and into the Cheboygan river.

Admiral Byrd Launches Move To Reduce Taxes

Civic Organizations Are Asked To Get Behind Movement

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Aug. 5.—With Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, conqueror of the north and south poles, as their leader, the New England Organization Committee and the National Economy League have fired the "opening volley" to reduce taxes by curbing wastage and extravagance of federal, state and municipal governments.

All civic and service organizations have been urged to take an active part in the campaign and each civic club and chamber of commerce has been asked to have a committee attend the various meetings sponsored by the league.

These organizations will be asked later to make a thorough study of town, city, state and federal expenditures and appropriations to determine whether there is a present need for such expenditures from a viewpoint of expediency and fairness to the entire body of citizens and to use their utmost influence in preventing the spending of money, which is not necessary to good government.

"Civic and service organizations," declared Admiral Byrd, "which have regular meeting days have an opportunity to bring such matters into the open for general discussion. There are numerous such organizations and if they urge their membership to a full discussion of these problems, we would soon have the full force of the citizenship of the United States behind this movement to curb governmental waste and extravagance in expenditures."

Fire Sweeps Four Blocks In Chicago

Packing Plant's Loss Is $5,000,000 And 10-Story Elevator Is Destroyed

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Fire which caused damage estimated at $6,000,000 was brought under control last night after burning through four industrial blocks along the Chicago river, south branch, on Chicago's southwest side.

It was Chicago's largest conflagration in 30 years, veteran fire officials said, exceeding the $5,000,000 Burlington building fire several years ago.

At the Omaha Packing Co. plant, most of which was destroyed, officials placed their damage at not less than $5,000,000.

The flames started about 3 p. m. in the elevator of the Quincy Elevator Co., consuming nearly 1,000,000 bushels of grain with a market value of more than $560,000, under present quotations. The value of the elevator was estimated at $500,000.

Yacht Is Destroyed.

The fire spread to several coal piles of the Consumers Co. and lumber at the plant of the W. B. Crane Co. A large yacht was also destroyed.

More than a dozen firemen and spectators were injured or overcome by smoke, but the only serious casualty was a skull fracture suffered by Fire Lieut William McDonald, who was struck by a falling pipe.

Half the city's fire equipment, nearly 100 pieces, was concentrated at the scene, at 22nd and Sangamon streets. The belated arrival of fire boats prevented further damage along the river front. Police held back a crowd of 30,000 spectators.

Destruction of the packing plant, a subsidiary of Swift & Co., will throw 1,000 men out of work, officials said. The office building was still burning last night.

The cause was believed to have been a dust explosion or spontaneous combustion in the ten-story elevator. Thirty-six men working in the elevator escaped.

Included in the loss were 736,000 bushels of wheat, 96,000 bushels of corn and oats, 800 hogs, 68 cattle, 150 calves, 200 sheep, 8,000,000 pounds of ham and 3,000,000 pounds of lard.

Moves To Preserve "Perry's Lookout" On Lake Erie Isle

SANDUSKY, O., Aug. 5.—Preservation of "Perry's Lookout," on Gibraltar Island in Lake Erie, is contemplated.

The "Lookout," highest point of land on Gibraltar, has been threatened with disintegration as a result of wave action and frosts.

Fissures, first noticed two years ago, have developed into large cracks and trustees of Ohio State University, which owns the island, have determined to save it.

It is expected that the vertical fissure will be filled with soft cement. At the base, where the great rock structure has been weakened by the waves, huge granite boulders may be placed to form a sound foundation without marring the natural appearance of the Lookout.

It was here that Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry stationed a lookout while his fleet hid in the lee of Gibraltar, to watch for the approach of Barclay's squadron.

When the masts of the British fleet approaching from the direction of the Detroit River finally appeared, the signal was given for Perry's boats to meet the enemy for the Battle of Lake Erie.

The Ten Commandments (First Part)

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.—Duet. 6:5.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson for August 7 is Exodus 19:1-20:11, especially 20:1-11, the Golden Text being. Deut. 6:5, "Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.")

That a people just emerging from centuries of slavery and its consequent under-privilege should within two months of their emancipation be led to formulate in ten brief statements a law which was to become the inspiration and essence of the best jurisprudence of all civilized nations for all subsequent ages is the clearest possible proof of the clear divine guidance of Israel's great law-giver, Moses, in the formulation of the decalogue. It is proof positive that "God spake all these words."

All's Love, Yet All's Law

It is interesting to note that despite the majestic setting given the promulgation of the law in the quaking mountain, bathed in lightning and smoke so terrifying that all the people, even including Moses, "did exceedingly fear and quake," nevertheless, these words summarizing all human duties are prefaced not upon motives of fear, but rather the motive of love: "I am Jehovah thy God, who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

To God belongs first place in our devotion because of his love of us rather than our fear of him, even at Sinai, where "All's law, yet all's love." "We love him because he first loved us."

"The First And Great Command"

When our Lord was challenged to point out "the great commandment in the law", he replied by summing up into one commandment all the commandments of the first table dealing with man's duty to God, saying, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the great and first commandment. And a second, like unto it is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments the whole law hangeth, and the prophets." In other words, "Love is the fulfilling of the law." All there is to religion and morality is and must be the expression of love. But in their order religion comes first as the root, and morality comes second as the fruit.

The personality, spirituality, infinity, unity and majesty of Jehovah are all asserted here: "I am Jehovah thy God . . . Thou shalt have no other gods before me." If such a God is the object of our worship the manner of our worship must befit the object: "Thou shalt not make unto thee a graven image, nor any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that it is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them."

This spiritual God demands a spiritual worship and not the carnalities of idolotry, whether it be the crude type of paganism or the cultural type of modern mamon worship.

The Holy Name

All profanity, perjury and blasphemy of idle and insincere use of God's holy name is forbidden in the solemn warning: "Thou shalt not take the name of Jehovah thy God in vain: for Jehovah will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain."

For the preservation and cultivation of this spiritual religion in which Jehovah is to have the preeminent place in human devotion God made provision by his institution of the Sabbath as a day of rest and worship to meet man's physical need of rest and his spitritual need of worship, saying, "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." But here also 'twas love, for Christ said, "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath."

LABORATORY YIELDS NEW FACTS ON KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Its "Bulk" and Vitamin B Help Relieve Constipation; Also Has Blood-building Iron

New laboratory experiments demonstrate that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has sufficient "bulk" to exercise the intestines, as well as Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Now you can overcome common constipation by this pleasant "cereal way," and banish the headaches, backaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

No need to worry along with pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Instead, just eat two tablespoonfuls daily of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—adequate for most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming. Equally tasty as a cereal, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Husband Empties Unfaithful Wife's Ashes Into River

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 5.—Her husband poured the ashes of Mrs. Mabel Mary Kelly, aged 42, of Nyota, Ala., from the suspension bridge into the Ohio River here yesterday, carrying out her wishes though she died in a suicide pact with another man she loved.

With police permission, John W. Kelly, and L. S. Owen, Warrior, Ala., undertaker, stopped their ambulance in the middle of the bridge, and then, with bared heads, while curious commuters looked on, solemnly emptied the urn holding all that remained of the woman two men loved and both lost.

They drove 625 miles from Alabama with the woman's body, returning her to the city in which she once lived.

Health department officials were told Mrs. Kelly was found dead of poison at Nyota, Sunday, besides the unconscious form of J. H. Cranford, well-to-do Nyota merchant. Notes the pair left, it was reported, told of decision to kill themselves when Kelly learned of their illicit affections.

Kentucky feudists are shooting one another again, investigators being too scarce for target practice.

Complain About Trucks Traveling Too Close Together On Highways

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 5—Complaints from various parts of the state that trucks and other commercial vehicles in many instances travel so close together as to constitute a menace to traffic led the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, state unit of the A. A. A., to call attention today to the law that requires commercial vehicles traveling in the same direction to remain 500 feet apart, except for passing. Motorists observing violations of this regulation were urged by the federation to report them to the highway patrol, the local authorities or to any motor club.

"By a drastic change in the regulations governing the movement of commercial vehicles on highways outside of business and residence districts, the 1931 legislature sought to eliminate the danger of trucks and other big vehicles traveling so close together as to make overtaking and passing difficult and dangerous for faster-moving cars," S. Edward Gable, president of the federation, explained. "Section 1010 of the vehicle code previously fixed 100 feet as the distance, but this was extended to 500 feet at the 1931 session of the legislature." He quoted this section as follows:

The operator of a motor vehicle shall not follow another vehicle more closely than is reasonable and prudent, having due regard to the speed of such vehicle and the traffic upon and condition of the highway.

The operator of any motor bus, motor omnibus, commercial motor vehicle, truck tractor or tractor, when traveling upon a highway outside of a business or residential district, shall not follow another such vehicle within 500 feet, but this shall not be construed to prevent one such vehicle overtaking and passing another such vehicle.

The penalty is fixed at $10 fine and costs of prosecution, and five days' imprisonment in default of payment.

Still Turning Out Brick For Prison

Pearson Plant Rushing Last Of Lewisburg Order; 600 Carloads Gone

With nearly another month's work left before the Pearson Brick company here finishes the huge brick order placed over a year ago for Uncle Sam's new Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary, the prison itself, those familiar with the project report, is rapidly nearing completion.

It was just a year ago late in July that the New Castle brick plant, located along the Neshannock creek, began producing the first supply of the immense $125,000 contract. Since then carload after carload of brick has been shipped out of the local works.

While no definite calculations have as yet been made, it is estimated that approximately 600 freight cars have been employed for the prison work.

Detective License Revoked By Court

William Goldblatt Can No Longer Operate Penn-State Detective Agency

Judge R. L. Hildebrand has handed down an order revoking the detective license of William Goldblatt, who operated a detective bureau here under the name of the Penn-State Detective Agency.

Action against Goldblatt was started last month when several clients filed charges that they had sent money to him for which no accounting had been made.

In the conduct of his business, Goldblatt did considerable collecting for out of town firms. It was frequently necessary to issue writs of attachment for money. When a writ is issued a bond must be filed at the prothonotary's office.

Goldblatt is alleged to have represented to certain of his clients that he needed advancements for the attachment bonds. It was claimed that the money was then converted to his own use.

When the charges were filed Judge Hildebrand granted a rule on Goldblatt to show cause why his license should not be revoked. The rule was made returnable on July 25th. Goldblatt did not put in an appearance, neither was an answer filed to the rule. A petition was then presented to make the rule absolute, which has been done, and the license revoked. The license was granted, on March 26, 1932. Goldblatt had previously held a license which had run out when the renewal was asked.

Greta Garbo Plans To Escape Swedish Reception At Pier

Will Leave Steamer In Sea And Take Launch To Mainland, Wants Quiet Vacation

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 5.—Elaborate plans made by Greta Garbo to escape a reception scheduled for her arrival in Sweden Monday were revealed to International News Service today.

The famous film star, it was learned, intends to sidestep the reception and with this aim in view, has made complete preparations by wireless to disembark from the liner Gripsholm before it reaches Gothenburg and flee northward as speedily as possible.

When the Gripsholm is one hour out from Gothenburg, the actress will be met by a fast motor launch and taken at full speed to an isolated point on the Swedish coast.

There a high-powered automobile will be waiting to take her to Varnnand, where she will remain for a fortnight as the guest of Mini Potlack, noted Swedish actress and a close friend of Garbo.

At the end of two weeks, it was learned, Garbo plans to come to Stockholm for an official reception, but she is determined that her first two weeks in Sweden must be an uninterrupted vacation.

Ziegfeld Leaves Entire Estate To Widow-Daughter

Request Made Of Widow That She Provide For Mother, Mrs. Rosalie Ziegfeld

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Florenz Ziegfeld's will, a simple document dividing his estate equally between his widow, Billie Burke, and his daughter, Patricia, was filed today in surrogate's court, White Plains.

No appraisal of the estate was attached to the will. There is no bequest to the showman's mother, Mrs. Rosalie Ziegfeld of Chicago but the will reads, "having full confidence she will be well provided for by my wife and daughter."

The will, five pages in length, dated April 30, 1929, provides for payment of funeral expenses and then says the residue shall be divided between the widow, Ethelbert Appleton Ziegfeld ("also known as Billie Burke") and Patricia.

It requests that Billie Burke pay his mother not less than $500 monthly in not less than quarter annual payments and suggests that when Patricia is of age she contribute equally to the elder Mrs. Ziegfeld's support.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

POTATO GROWERS TOUR

From present indications there will be over 100 western Pennsylvania potato growers, including a number from Lawrence county, visit the A. C. Ramseyer farm at Smithville, O., and the Ohio experiment station at Wooster on August 9 and 10.

The tour will leave from the square in New Castle Tuesday morning, August 9, at 7 o'clock eastern standard time, and proceed by way of Mt. Jackson, Bessemer to Poland; Ohio routes 17 and 5 will be followed from there to Smithville. Lawrence county growers who plan to make the trip should join the group at the starting point or enroute.

After arriving at Smithville the remainder of Tuesday will be spent inspecting the 400 acres of potatoes being grown on the Ramseyer farm. Mr. Ramseyer will be digging 50 acres of Cobblers at that time. There will also be an opportunity to see the equipment used and hear discussions on the management methods followed on this farm.

Tuesday night will be spent in or near Wooster at the hotels or tourists' homes. Wednesday morning will be given over to inspecting of experimental projects being conducted at the Ohio experiment station. Such projects as the fertilizing and spraying of potatoes will be extremely interesting and profitable to the tourists.

DAIRYMEN'S TOUR TO POLK

The farm of Dr. Fred Taylor at Pulaski will be the first farm visited on the Lawrence and Beaver county dairymen's tour August 11. The new milking parlor recently completed on the Taylor farm will be of extreme interest to the tourists.

Local dairymen who will make this trip should gather at the Taylor farm, located on the Edenburg-Pulaski road, by 8:30 E. S. T. Thursday morning. The tour will leave the Taylor farm at 9:15 o'clock and proceed by way of New Wilmington to Mercer.

The stop in Mercer county will be at the Mercer sanitarium, where a herd of pure-bred Jersey cattle will be inspected. This herd made an average production of 504 pounds of butterfat per cow, in cow testing association work last year.

The third and last stop will be at Polk. The tourists will arrive there aboue noon and enjoy a basket dinner in the park at the Polk school grounds. After dinner H. C. Ewait, manager of the institutional farm, will show the tourists through the dairy and over the farms. Arrangements have been made for the visitors to be taken through the school proper.

The entire program wil be completed in ample time for the dairymen to return home for their evening chores.

LANDSCAPE MEETING

"How to make the home grounds attractive and not just a place to set the house," will be discussed by A. O. Rasmussen, landscape specialist from State College, at the farm of J. M. Rick near Mt. Hope school, Wayne township, Wednesday, August 10, at 1 p. m. standard time.

No home-grounds are complete without plantings of shrubbery and flowers. Mr. Rasmussen will tell how this can be done with the least expenditure of money.

Many home owners wonder what type of shrubbery can be used under their particular conditions and what type can not be used satisfactorily. The time and method of planting are also points of controversy among home owners. These questions will be discussed at this time.

SWEET CORN CLUBS TO HOLD ROUND-UP

Members of the Wayne and Perry 4-H Sweet Corn clubs will hold a round-up at the Pleasant Hill grange hall Thursday evening, August 11, at 8 o'clock eastern standard time. There are 13 boys enrolled in the two clubs and each member will exhibit ten ears of corn.

R. H. McDougall, county agent of Butler county will judge the exhibits. Separate placings will be made for each club, and awards will be given on the basis of yield, exhibit and record book.

These clubs were organized this spring under the supervision of the agricultural extension service. Each member planted one pound each of the following varieties: Early Golden Market, Whipple's Yellow, and Extra Early Bantam.

POTATO BLIGHT MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

Late blight of potatoes has made its appearance in a number of western Pennsylvania counties, particularly Fayette, Somerset and Cambria. The disease is very apt to reach an epidemic stage in view of recent rains and cloudy weather. The late blight is the most destructive disease affecting Pennsylvania potato crops. It is only a few years ago that not only fields in Lawrence county but others throughout the state were permanently injured both by yield and quality of potatoes. It is due particularly to this disease that Lawrence county potato growers have in recent years equipped themselves with modern sprayers to prevent the loss which such a disease may cause. Growers who have the equipment should continue to make thorough applications of bordeaux spray at weekly intervals. The mixture of eight pounds of bluestone (copper sulphate) and eight pounds of a good grade of lime per 100 gallons is a standard spray for the control of the disease.

Late blight rot which follows injuries of this disease is of interest and importance to both the grower and consumer. The good name which Lawrence county potatoes have established on the market is at stake unless the disease is controlled and the rot prevented.

HONEY LEFT IN THE HIVE MEANS LOWER QUALITY

Good beekeepers find it necessary to remove section honey as soon as the sections are well filled and sealed in order to get high quality comb honey.

As long as the comb honey remains in the hive the bees continue to add propolis to the wood and wax. This spoils the appearance of the sections and lowers the grade.

To remove the honey a bee escape board should be placed under the super in the evening. The bees will go down through the bee escape during the night, but will be unable to return. The super should be removed early the next morning when it will be nearly free of bees.

FEED AND MANAGE FLOCKS FOR EFFICIENT LAYING

Forty-one per cent of the birds in farm flocks were removed last year because of low egg production.

Half of the culling was done during July, August and September. Records kept by farm flock owners cooperating with the Pennsylvania State college agricultural extension service reveal the story of this improvement.

Management practices designed to keep the birds laying are: 1. Feed a good mash mixture. 2. Feed a moist mash mixture in crumbly form. Three pounds per 100 birds a day usually is fed. 3. Provide plenty of cool fresh water. 4. Control lice and mites. 5. Keep the laying houses as cool and clean as possible. 6. Cull carefully.

VEGETABLE GARDEN CROPS BENEFIT FROM MULCHING

Mulching garden crops helps to keep down weeds and prevents a rapid drying out of the soil.

Crops giving the best results when mulched are tomatoes, eggplants, peppers and celery. Two or three inches of strawy manure, straw, grass, or mulching paper will be beneficial to these crops. Partially decayed chaffy manure is a good mulch as it will add nitrogen to the soil and stimulate leaf growth. It is especially desirable for celery.

Gardeners should not use papers containing tar or other poisonous material as it will injure the plants. Asphalt paper is satisfactory, however.

Allow Planes To Fly Over Fortified Zone

(International News Service)

TOKYO AUG. 5.—Permitting commerical airplanes to fly over a fortified zone for the first time, the Japanese Ministry of War established a precedent when it favorably considered such a request by the Japanese Air Transport Company. The zone in question is that surrounding Kwammon Pass, the western entrance to Japan's Inland Sea.

At present passenger planes must turn south before reaching the strait and fly across a mountainous country. Under the new permission, in case of bad weather the planes may fly via Kwammon Strait. This entails no mountain flying. The coastline is followed all the way.

FATHER REPORTS SON IS MISSING

Clyde Shoaf of 441½ County Line street, reported to the police last evening that his son, Leroy had left home Wednesday, August 3 in company with Paul Zeitler and had not been seen since. The father asked the assistance of the police in locating the missing boy.

The missing youth is described as being fourteen years of age, five feet in height, weighing about 105 pounds. He was wearing light colored knickers, a green waist and tennis shoes when he left home. He may be wearing overalls when located.

Tax Measure Is Being Drafted

Rep. Wade, Cumberland County, Switches From Opposition To Tax Bill Stand

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 5.—Switching his stand from strong opposition to tax measures of any kind, Rep. George Wade, Cumberland, announced Thursday that the legislative bloc of which he is co-leader will introduce a new occupation tax measure on Monday night. Rep. E. P. Brown, Susquehanna, Wade said, is assisting in drafting the bill.

The main purpose of the new occupation tax measure is to keep the tax levying authority as well as the distribution of funds in the hands of county, rather than in the hands of state authorities.

One of the main purposes of the bill will be to shift to the shoulders of the more populous counties the burden of their own unemployment relief rather than to depend upon the state treasury.

Sponsors of the bill claim it has many advantages over the Memolo measure which will come up for final consideration in the house on Monday night. The Memolo bill levies an occupation tax, the proceeds of which would go into the state treasury while fixing of rates and responsibility for collection would be lodged in the state department of revenue.

The minimum occupation tax under the Memolo bill is fixed at $1.00. Fearful of being taxed even $1.00 to support the jobless in the big cities, the farmers have registered their objections with members of the legislature from rural counties.

The new bill would permit county commissioners to exempt farmers and other groups which are organized, such as trade unions, and place the burden on minorities in each county, whose votes at the polls would not be feared.

Pup's Surgical Scar Proves Of Value

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—An operation is valuable in more ways than one, it has been proved by Tiny, a Pekingese dog owned by the socially prominent Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair.

While the Blairs were in Europe Emil Sherman, former butler in their home, saw a dog which he believed was Tiny. Tiny had been missing for several months.

There was no accurate means of identifying the dog until Dwight C. Swanson, secretary to Blair, appeared.

"Look at the pup's tummy," he said. "If there is a scare from a surgical operation, it is Tiny."

The scar was discovered, with the result that Tiny was restored to his rightful owners.

Town Has Station But No Railroad

(International News Service)

HUSTON, Mo. Aug. 5.—Railroad stations usually are built close to the railroad tracks, regardless of the distance from town.

This town, however is one that can boast (or complain) that it has a railroad station in the town—but no railroad.

The station has stood ready for the use for which it was designed and constructed—but no trains arrive and tracks are non-existent.

A Unique, Scientific Invention

The discovery of the millers of famous Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour, Bisquick is utterly different from anything ever before known. It is made with an amazing new-type shortening (manufactured exclusively for use in Bisquick) which still keeps fresh and sweet when old-type shortenings turn rancid.

Then, too, the "knack" or "trick" of perfect biscuits is made into Bisquick. By a remarkable new process which mixes the shortening into the dry ingredients (something few women ever learn to do) about ten times more perfectly than human hands can do.

"Kitchen-tested" for uniformity of results under the direction of the noted Gold Medal Cooking Authority, Betty Crocker, Bisquick brings you perfect biscuits every time.

Based on an historic Southern recipe, every Bisquick you make is an exquisite adventure in deliciousness.

New Secretary Is Quite Confident Of Better Times

Secretary Of Commerce Roy D. Chapin, Returns To Detroit With Air Of Optimism

SAYS BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Aug. 5.—Roy D. Chapin, newly appointed secretary of commerce in the Hoover cabinet, returned to Detroit Thursday with a note of optimism for economic recovery. He succeeds Robert P. Lamont. The business outlook is more promising than at any other time since 1929, he said.

Chapin plans to devote all of his time to his new job, he said, but will retain the title of board chairman of the Hudson Motor Car company, which he helped organize and of which he was president before he was 30 years old.

"The president told me," Chapin said, "that he felt enough power and authority had been given the administrative end of the government to bring about a distinct improvement in general coniditions.

"He asked me to be a part of the organization endeavoring to utilize the facilities put at the administration's disposal. He appeared to feel that these facilities, properly utilized, would help to bring back commodity prices."

Big Gold Nugget Just Plain Rock To Green Miner

(International News Service)

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 5.—Digging gold in Montana would be much easier if there weren't so "darned many rocks" in the way, according to a story reaching here recently from the Montana gold fields.

An unemployed mechanic, with little knowledge of gold mining was grubstaked by an old-timer, according to the story. The old-timer visited the mechanic a few days after the latter had begun work.

"I could get along faster," said the mechanic, holding out a fist-sized rock, "if it wasn't for these darned rocks. They're hard to dig out and they never seem to end."

The old-timer looked at the rock and clung to his partner for support.

Assays showed the rock contained $2,000 worth of gold.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

HARRISBURG, Aug., 5. — The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania decided the Old Age Pension act of 1923 was unconstitutional. That limitation may be removed if an amendment proposed by the General Assembly is finally adopted. It will permit the Legislature to enact laws to aid mothers with dependent children and aged persons without adequate means of support. Another amendment will authorize the General Assembly to confer such power on counties and municipalities.

PENNSYLVANIA WELCOMES NATION-WIDE

Nearly 50 Stores In New Castle, Ellwood City, Wampum, Wilmington, Pulaski, Bessemer, Wurtemburg, Volant, Slippery Rock, Prospect

GRAND OPENING, SATURDAY, AUGUST 6

Pennsylvania welcomes the arrival of Nation-Wide Stores in our midst at the grand opening, Saturday, August 6th. The citizens in every community throughout this entire section are glad to see the independent retail grocers band together with a huge chain. The community wants to see their old friend and neighbor selling food stuffs of quality at substantial savings. That's what the home-owned store can do now that it has joined up with the Nation-Wide organization. And yet the owner still keeps full ownership and management of his store—his life's work, perhaps.

The people welcome the Nation-Wide Stores . The grocer welcomes Nation-Wide even more. For he is now able to buy at a fraction of former prices He is advised concerning the best methods of store display. He never did like to get up an ad for the paper or a hand bill. Now all this is done for him by experts—in quantity lots at trifling costs. Much of his time was taken up by many salesmen—this time is now free for constructive work in his store.

It's easy to see why nearly 50 leading retail grocers in this section are merging with Nation-Wide. Each has all the advantages of a regular chain, yet is still sole owner and in complete charge of his own store. He's his own boss. He has joined an immense family scattered throughout the United States. He profits from the experience of his brother stores. He can't help keep up to date. Yet he is still interested in each of his customers—the same kind, "family grocer" that you've enjoyed trading with for years.

Nation-Wide Idea Spread To 6000 Stores In Only Few Years

That independent grocers were eager for the Nation-Wide Stores plan is evinced in the rapidity with which the idea has been received in all sections of the country. And the success which has followed has proved that the voluntary chain is the most efficient, economical and satisfactory form of grocery store control for both owner and customer alike.

Mr. Lewis C. Shave, president of Nation-Wide Stores, explained his idea to two hundred fifty independent retailers in Southeastern Massachusetts way back in June, 1925. After considering his plan, they all agreed to pioneer in this movement, and make each of their stores a unit of this organization. The stores then were called the Better Service Stores.

Intense work, constructive effort and unlimited thought was invested by Mr. Shave to enlarge the membership of Better Service Stores and the worth of the plan gradually became better known. By 1928 the organization had outgrown its local character, and the name was changed to Nation-Wide, a trade name which would describe the scope and service of the organization.

The plan expanded so rapidly that New England soon became only its birthplace, for in 1929 the General Grocery Company of St. Louis secured a franchise for the Middle West. Divisions in other parts of the country followed, the Pennsylvania Division being the "new baby" in the national family at present.

"Nation-Wide Food Stores, led by Lewis C. Shave," states Craig Davidson in his book, "Voluntary Chain Stores" (Harper Bros.), "were not the first among wholesalers to apply the principles of chain merchandising to independent retail stores working in cooperation with the wholesaler, but they were in the front rank. Certainly they were the first to arouse the interest of the wholesalers generally and publicly."

Mr. Shave explained at a Wholesaler Grocers' convention in 1926 the progress they had made during the past year with their organization in Southeastern Massachusetts. Up to the time of this convention voluntary chains were lacking in confidence. Their purpose was clear, but their methods hazy. Because there was no secrecy concerning Better Service Stores, because there was no intention of forming a monopoly, because the plan was of mutual good, President Shave presented it in detail before that memorable convention.

This was the incident which sent voluntary chain stores on a sure road to success. The stability of the plan and the enthusiasm and confidence it inspired were all contagious traits. Lewis C. Shave had faith in his plan. This faith has taken tangible form and today nearly 6,000 independent retail stores are operating under the Nation-Wide plan.

The growth of Nation-Wide has been meteoric, but the rapid expansion has developed no weakness in the plan. Rather it has strengthened it. The theme of Nation-Wide is co-operation, and on that basis success has been achieved.

$600,000 Spent By Nation-Wide Stores For The Unemployed

Nation-Wide is doing its part to relieve unemployment! Present conditions issue a challenge to nearly 6,000 independent Nation-Wide store owners, and they are meeting it!

There isn't a grocery store in the country that doesn't need considerable painting up and repairing at least once a year. This is just the sort of work that many a man whose job has ceased to be is more than glad to get. Each of the 6,000 owners is planning to spend $100.00 to "give the other man a job, and to give me a cleaner, more attractive store." This makes $600,000 that is being spent by Nation-Wide Stores for the unemployed.

This campaign was launched in the March Nation-Wide News.

An official of the company explains the idea to the retail merchants: "Put labor to work! Employ a resident neighbor to do the job in your store. When you put him to work you accomplish a two-fold purpose. You aid him to re-establish himself as a working man, and you enable him to pay you what he owes you.

"Let's get behind this program and make Nation-Wide an all-important factor in alleviating unemployment!"

Educators Favor Typewriting For Child Students

Experimental Study Of Typewriter In Elementary Class Rooms

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—Evidence that one of the three R's of American public school education is going to give away to a T in the future has been adduced by two college professors, Dr. Ben B. Woods, of Columbia University, and Dr. Frank N. Freeman of the University of Chicago.

The T will stand for typewriting, they suspect.

In a report which they have prepared on "An Experimental Study of the Typewriter in the Elementary School Classroom," they quote superintendents and teachers of schools from New York to New Mexico as enthusiastically sponsoring the use of typewriters by small children in specially equipped classrooms separate from regular classrooms.

Banishment of slate and lead pencils for machinery resulted in improvement of both spelling and handwriting, the teachers reported. Over 400 teachers with a total of 14,949 pupils studied the use of typewriters over a period of two years before Drs. Wood and Freeman drew up their report.

"No loss of quality or speed in handwriting was found after prolonged use of typewriters," the investigators reported. "On the contrary, a gain in amount is reported, attributed to the stimulus provided the child by having a machine to use. When the child found a classroom machine in use, his more highly developed powers of expression carried over to pen or pencil.

"The clearness and correctness of the letter and figure, it was found, helped the children to spell, to read and to add. Especially in arithmetic was it discovered that the typewriter, its visual clarity and orderliness of form, provided a distinct aid.

"Teachers reported that some children would write columns of figures all day long, if permitted. The child in learning to write, frequently reserves a figure or letter. The typewriter, by supplying automatically the correct version, impresses it upon his memory, so that early errors and loss of time were lessened, and he could more quickly learn to write by hand the correct symbol."

NATION-WIDE STORES OPEN SATURDAY

Nearly 50 Leading Grocers Merge With Gigantic Chain

ALL HOME OWNED STORES

Nation-Wide Stores open in Western Pennsylvania Saturday, to bring the finest food stuffs to housewives at lowest possible prices. Nearly 50 grocers in this district have voluntarily merged with this gigantic chain. Every store is still a "home owned" store, under the full control and management of its original owner, yet profiting from the great buying powers of the group. Hundreds of nationally advertised foods will be sold at these stores at prices never before offered by independent grocers throughout this section. On another page of this paper you will find a few of their many special values offered.

The plan of the Nation-Wide Stores is a simple idea of unity in purchasing, merchandising and advertising. Retail grocers band themselves together for the purpose of merchandising and purchasing through the medium of the local wholesaler who holds the franchise of Nation-Wide Stores Company.

Most Efficient Stores

An important feature of the Nation-Wide Stores company plan and one distinctly separate from its other attractions is the co-operation given the retail merchant in rearranging his store in order that the greatest efficiency of stock display may be obtained from his fixtures. Supervisors of the company assist grocer members in arranging their stores in the most attractive, efficient and sanitary manner. Goods are arranged so they will sell most readily with the least attention of the owner.

While the plan of the Nation-Wide Stores company is the results of the thoughts and experience of merchandise experts and supervision is given by the national headquarters, Nation-Wide Stores are owned and operated by residential property owners and taxpayers, whose profits are kept in circulation in their own town.

The sponsoring wholesalers, J J. Dean Grocery Co., New Castle, are helping to make each member grocer a most important factor in the community in which he resides. Their salesmen are merchandising specialists, so that they may aid rather than burden the merchant. These men have been studying merchandise methods and retailer economies. They also have practical knowledge of store set up gained by actual work under instructors from a national expert who has directed the remodeling of almost 200 stores in western Pennsylvania as well as thousands of other stores throughout the country.

Nation-Wide Stores is no "Over Night" scheme, but the results of years of thought, study and trial. They are now ready to serve this community efficiently and economically.

GROUP ADVERTISING ECONOMY FEATURE

One of the incidental advantages to membership in the Nation-Wide Stores company, and far from being a minor one, is the benefit of publicity, it has been pointed out.

Take the matter of display advertising on this district's stores, all of which handle the same brand of goods, whose merchandising are alike, and whose stocks are fluid and can subscribe to the name advertising copy. Obviously such a union of stores can command more than the strongest individual store imaginable.

Publicity and advertising is done for all the stores by experts who have made this their life work.

NATION-WIDE PRICES LOWER QUALITY BETTER

Remember how particular you were last fall when you were picking out pears and tomatoes to can? "It's no use to put up any but perfect foods," you said. That is the belief of Nation-Wide Stores. Their experts look closely into the condition and quality of foods prepared by the various packers and canners before they sign their huge contracts. Their corn is never full of rough kernel—their beans are free from strings—their peas sweet and tender.

In every phase of buying for Nation-Wide Stores the inferior is discarded. For the good cook knows that a lot depends on what she has to work with—and full-flavored, delicate foods taste far better than over-ripe or immature ones.

Then Nation-Wide experts flash such a large order before the purchase that they are able to bring the price down and down. This allows these full-flavored foods to sell in Nation-Wide Stores throughout the country at prices you'll be glad to know about.

This is the biggest reason why thrifty wives who value their husband's digestive systems, pass up cheap foods, and get instead quality foods, at the same low prices. You'll be depending on Nation-Wide Stores in a short time, too!

Retail Grocer Reveals Why Nation-Wide Store Method Is Successful

"Group activity through voluntary co-operation is the present way to success and community service. And that's why we have found the Nation-Wide voluntary chain the best method of serving our customers and ourselves," said Mr. Russell Urmston of Urmson Brothers, member of the Nation-Wide Stores, Pennsylvania Division, when asked what Nation-Wide would mean to this territory.

"We believe in the principles incorporated in the Nation-Wide Stores plan of merchandising, because it gives the Independent Grocer a way to meet any competition that may come to his neighbor, yet gives him the power to maintain his own business, and be an important factor in the community where he lives, and does business.

"He recognizes in it the most modern method of providing the people with foods on the most economical and practical plan that has ever been presented, and relies upon it for his future success. The chain store method of merchandising has proved successful, because of group-buying, and the centralized application of modern display and selling methods.

"We purchase what our customers want. They will be satisfied because they get the brands and quality of goods they desire.

"We promise to put forth our best efforts in supplying only the best food at low prices.

"The Nation-Wide Store plan does not deprive an independent grocer of his individuality.

"The stores are New Castle owned, employing only New Castle people, buying from New Castle wholesale merchants, depositing their money in New Castle banks, and are in every way—100% for New Castle."

An Interview With Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, of Dallas
By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—I am what I happen to be today because I had three brothers who were plenty rough and I lived in a neighborhood in Beaumont, Texas, where the neighbor boys weren't any nicer to little girls than my brothers were to me.

They always would slam-bang me around and I didn't do much about it for a long while and then I didn't see any reason why I shouldn't take my own part and I hear that I made a pretty good job of it after I learned boxing in 1929 which sport was the first that I ever fooled around with, I mean, a real major sport.

I never went into any kind of regular athletics until I was 16, which was three years ago. Everybody said I was too little to be monkeying around in games. By the time I entered high school and was still barred from school games, I was good enough with the boxing gloves to bounce my brother Louis into the floor every once in a while and Louis weighed 160 and was that guy hard!

Played Basketball.

It was after my first year in high school that I gained about 4 inches in height and scaled up in weight from around 100 pounds to about 115 before the officials would risk letting me into a basketball game.

That's where I got another laugh, because I figured no matter how tough they were they couldn't be any more so than my brother Louis when he began pumping leather into my face and body.

Oh, yes, Louis did drop me lots of times, but he never had much luck keeping me there.

Very Good Swimmer.

Well. I got my chance at basketball and I smacked down a few records the first year. The officials thought it might be a great idea to have an ambulance stretcher around so that they could carry me away as gently as possible, but after that first they kept it there for the other girls.

It was while I was in high school that they had a swimming and diving meet. I entered the meet, won all the championships, both diving and swimming and then I got myself some more medals by winning all the swimming and diving championships.

When I was pretty much of a little kid I used to run with the boys and it wasn't long before I could beat most of them. So when I got into high school and they had races for girls I said I would like to get into them and they let me do that and I snatched all those prizes and took them home and my folks began to worry because it looked as if they would have to rent a storehouse

They announced at school there would be a singles and doubles tennis championship for girls and that all girls would be eligible. I never had a racquet in my hands up to that minute. But I promptly borrowed one, I began practising alone. then with another girl. I entered the tournament, won in the singles and won in the doubles.

In 1930 while I was playing basketball and going in for school athletics, and had grown taller and heavier, my brother Louis, who was my very friendly enemy, began to hedge a little while I wanted to keep on boxing with him and finally he suggested that we do a little wrestling.

He didn't know that I had wrestled most of the neighborhood kids and flipped them. Louis had it on me in weight, but I was faster. I learned lots of trick holds and although Louis was pretty good that didn't make him do an awful lot of winning.

I always got a great boot out of athletics competition and when I learned they had a sport like discuss throwing and baseball tossing and weight-throwing and hurdles and all that I put in my applications pronto. I'd watch how the other girls did things, go off by myself and practice.

That I guess, proves that if a girl wants to get herself a few championships and some trophies the way to do it is to be a tomboy like I was, taking the banging that the boys would hand out—and then do some banging on your own.

Smith Lot Cleared, Await Other Steps

A small section of the parcel of public square land upon which New Castle's imposing federal building will eventually rise, once the site of the Smith building, stood barren today after the wrecking task of B. G. Coates and a helper had ended.

Postmaster Lake S. MacNab could not say when additional vacant buildings on the chosen site will be offered for sale. He anticipated an early order from Washington to call for other bids, but had no information as to when more wrecking work might be resumed.

Showing Of Young American Olympic Stars Big Surprise

United States Did Not Dream Of Big Success That Athletes Have Attained

EUROPEANS ARE GETTING BETTER

By FRANK G. MENKE
International News Service Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—Olympic history merely is repeating these days down in the sun-baked fiery pit within the high walls of the majestic stadium.

The athletes of the U. S. A. are meeting every challenge thrown at them by the starriest runners and by the most brilliant field men that have come from every far-flung place on the globe—meeting the challange, and, almost with nonchalance, are rolling back into defeat those who have attempted to shatter America's athletic empire.

Results Astonishing

In every event where the boys and girls of Uncle Sam were expected to crash through to triumph, they have justified every iota of faith. In others, where it was presumed they might be conquered, even humiliated, they have astonished with victory.

These foemen of 1932 have not been easy to smash into defeat. England, Germany, Ireland, Finland and Italy have sent better men to the tenth Olympiad than ever competed before under those brave standards. Canada has sent the biggest squad that it ever honored with the chance for Olympic glory and from far-off Japan, Australia and New Zealand have come athletes whose prowess merited their entry in the battle for world glory.

"I knew we were going up against the most powerful band of track and field men we ever have faced," declared Lawson Robertson, chief coach of the American team. "And, also, I knew that we had a splendid collection of youths determined to hurl back every onslaught that was made. But the meet, so far, has brought me two distinct surprises. One is the alien athletes are more brilliant than I assumed and the other is that our boys are better than any of us had hoped.

Need More Time

"We cannot help but win the majority of championships on track and field in this Olympiad, but Europe and the Orient, and also Australia and South Africa, have served notice on us that this perhaps will be our last year of rather overwhelming supremacy. These nations need only another three or four more years to gain to the limit in tutoring knowledge and to so school their men that they will not again repeat the mistakes which have been fatal to the chances of many of them."

MORAVIA WIN GAME

Moravia Indians won from C. & D. baseball team 3 to 0 by scoring three runs in the fifth inning. Until the third frame neither team scored. P. Chambers pitched for the winners.

Pirates Lose Last 6 Games

National League Pennant Battle Is Tightening Up

BROOKLYN CLUB NOW COMING ON

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 5—With the leading Pirates beaten in their last six starts—a slump comparable to their 1921 collapse—the panic is on in the National League.

Six other clubs in the circuit still have a chance to grab the flag, with the fifth place Brooklyn Club coming fastest of all. The Dodgers drubbed Pittsburgh twice yesterday, 7 to 4 and 6 to 5, thanks to the slugging of Francis Xavier O'Doul, who hit three homers and a double.

Charley Grimm made an auspicious debut as player-manager of the Bruins by hitting two doubles and a single yesterday as his men swamped the Phillies 12 to 1 and advanced to within 3½ games of Pittsburgh.

The Giants downed the Cardinals 4 to 1.

Wally Berger's homer featured Boston's 3 to 2 victory over Cincinnati.

Catcher Bill Dickey, returning to the Yankees after a month's absence, poled four hits including a homer as the Yanks swamped Chicago, 15 to 3.

A five run rally in the tenth gave Washington a 14 to 11 win over Detroit. George Farnshaw hurled the Athletics to a 6 to 2 romp over the Browns, while Cleveland shellacked the Red Sox twice, 8 to 2 and 8 to 7.

Marino's Hurling Trims West Side A. C.

Graziani took a baseball game from the West Side by a 6-1 score on the Lee Avenue field. Thursday. Marino pitched against Wheale. He had a world of speed and his curves broke right and as the result the Sixth warders got only one hit. Errors behind Wheale helped to beat him as he allowed only five hits.

Ambridge To Play Mahoning

Garlands Scheduled To Tackle Tigers At West Side

RYANTOWN TO OPPOSE CIVICS

There'll be plenty of fast baseball in various sections of the city this evening, especially on the E. and A. field, Lee Avenue and Ryantown ground.

Nick Cangie will send his Mahoning A. A. Twilight leaguers against Ambridge on the E. and A. field. Mahoning has been playing bangup ball. Ambridge has a fast team, according to Nick.

The Mahoning A. A. will play Homewood on the E. and A. field Saturday and Nick believes that this evening's game will put the Mahoning A. A. in tiptop form for the Saturday tilt at 3:30 p. m. E. S. T.

While Mahoning and Ambridge are battling, the Garlands of West Pittsburg, another Twilight circuit nine will oppose the Tigers of the West Side. Tigers is a Lawrence loop team.

The Garlands and Tigers game will show the relative strength of the teams in the different leagues. Tigers hope to win and be in top form for the Scarazzo outfit Saturday at Centennial field.

Ryantown will play at home and will take on the West Side Civics at 6:30 p. m. D. S. T. Ryantown blanked Union A. A. 2 to 0 yesterday and the Twilight league team hopes to beat the Civics.

Mahoning Trims Cloverleaf, 11-3

Mahoning A. A. took over Cloverleaf 11 to 3 in a National loop Twilight Baseball league game on the Sampson Street field Thursday afternoon. S. Domenick came through with a home run and Orlando hit the ball for three bases. H. Gray and Domenick pitched fairly even baseball but Mahoning hit at opportune times.

Plans Completed For Third Tennis Tourney

Plans have been completed by Tully Caiazza, for the staging of New Castle's third big tennis tourney. The movement which began two years ago has increased in interest. Last year there were about 200 entries in the three classes, and this year indications point to close to 300 young tennis players entering the tourney.

The tournament will begin on August 18 and close in about two weeks. Entries will close on August 16, and then for two days the gigantic task of matching up the entries will be in progress. There is small entrance fee this year for the Seniors, Juniors, and Midgets. The Senior class is all players 18 years of age and over. The Juniors are from 14 to 17 years old. The Midgets all below the age of fourteen.

Hymie Levine has again been selected by Mr. Caiazza to supervise all matches.

Enteries Start Today

The champions last year were Lowell H. Wingerd, Senior champion. Ray Must Junior champion. Sam Pezzone, Midget champion. Wingerd and McAuley doubles champions. Seven cups will be given out this year to the various winners.

Enteries for the tourney can be made at either the Sporting Goods Store or the Cripps Hardware Store. All entering the tourney must file entry blanks.

Tennis is taking guite a hold here in New Castle, with the establishmen of courts in all parts of the city. There are more playing tennis in New Castle today than ever before. The tourney will no doubt draw the cream of the city. Wingerd will be entered, so will Sowersby, McFate and others of prominence in the tenlnis world of this fair city.

Union Loses To Ryantown

Teammates Fail To Come Through With Hits When Needed

HILL PITCHES MASTERFUL GAME

Ryantown blanked the Union A. A. 2 to 0 in an American division, Twilight Baseball league game Thursday on Scotland Lane. It was one of the best games of the season.

Hill pitched superb ball and when hits were needed his team mates could not hit when hits would have scored men on the bases.

James executed a neat play when he staged a double play unassisted and Critchlow and Herno poled the only long hits of the game. Both were good for two bases.

At one time Rech was forced off a base and before he was touched out between second and third all of the Ryantown players participated in the play.

The pursuit of Rech ended finally when one of the Ryantown players got the ball, made a dash, and then a flying tackle and tagged Rech when a foot away from third base.

DIAMOND DUST

Paul McCullough at bat. Serwatka fans him. "Why didn't you hit it?" a fan yells. "You come down and hit him," laughed Paul.

For a time Serwatka's fast ball had the Scarazzo eyes blinking but finally as it generally turns out, bat meets speed. Zip!

They'll turn out to see the Tigers- Scarazzo mixup Saturday at Centennial field. Wouldn't be surprisin' if there were 500 there.

Mehalic, Skaszela, Soho, Sniezek and Dudek hit home runs in the first half of the Falcons-Red game.

The game between Lockleys and Smiths in the City Mushball loop at the B. & O. field will draw a big crowd today.

They clashed before and it ended when an argument arose and the newspaper columns were employed to explain the argument.

At 6:30 p. m. today they'll meet. Arguments can't win mushball games and a rather exciting contest is anticipated.

Bessemer To Play At Brent

Rather Hectic Race Is Under Way For Runner-up Post

BESSEMER HAS NOT ANNOUNCED BATTERY

Having been slammed hard Wednesday, Brent's Coal Miners hope to atone for their defeat by taking the measure of Bessemer, Saturday when the two Lawrence County baseball teams clash at Brent.

Bessemer has been playing good baseball and for a time was only one game behind the league leading Scarazzo outfit. Brent usurped the place but later fell into their old position.

Brent will probably use Serwatka or Huston on the hill. Until he started tossing 'em straight across the pan he was faring well against Scarazzo and then Huston took his place.

Huston's drop ball broke good for some time and he managed to get along while Serwatka received credit for the defeat. So, on Saturday Brent hopes to beat Bessemer and again crawl up in the race for the Lawrence loop flag.

Owing to the rivalry between the two teams, the manager of the Bessemer outfit today said he wouldn't announce nor pick his battery until after his hurlers had warmed up Saturday afternoon.

Grid Season Drawing Near

Late This Month New Castle High Gridders Will Take Up Training

CAMP IDEA IS YET UNDECIDED

It hardly seems possible but this is the month that the New Castle football team starts their fall training. To be exact it is just about three weeks, until Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh's familiar voice will be heard "All out on the field."

Whether or not New Castle High team will go to their camp at Muddy Creek Falls this year is undecided as yet. There is a strong feeling in favor of the camp idea this season, and it is altogether likely that the boys will be taken out in the wilderness for a week.

Gardner and Bridenbaugh are working out minor details of the grid season already. The opening game is only a little over a month away. The summer has gone fast.

Not long now until you will hear the barking of the quarterback, and glimpse the mazda lamps of Taggart Field illuminating the East Side section and hear the yells and howls of the fans as some fast halfback tears loose around end for a 50 yard sprint for touchdown.

Clifton Flats Tops Castletons

Clifton Flats baseball team won from the Castletons 10 to 2 in a game at Clifton Flats field. The fine pitching of Brown for the Flats was a feature. He allowed but three hits and fanned eight men. P. Ryan, Isabella, White, Sniesek and H. Ryan were the heavy hitters.

Bill Dickey got back into the New York Yankees lineup Thursday and celebrated the event by smacking out four hits which included a home run with the bases full in the fourth inning. In all he batted five runs against the Whitesox.

Jimmy Belmont was given a lacing last night by Frankie Goosby at Pittsburgh. While Belmont was battered to all corners of the ring the decision was not unanimous. One of the judges thought that Belmont had won but was outvoted when the slips were read.

A fight which had the attention of fans all over the country was the defeat of Jimmy McLarnin by Lou Brouillard, former welterweight champion in 10 rounds at New York. Petrolle was cautious and Brouillard aggressive. The receipts totalled $35,000.

Tigers Hope To Claw Scarazzo

West Siders Hope To Pound Leaders For Recent Defeat

CASTLETONS PLAY IN FIRST GAME

Al Scarazzo, debonair sponsor of the Scarazzo baseball team in the Lawrence County loop is looking forward to Saturday when, according to his own word of mouth, he hopes to have a lot of pleasure. Should the Scarazzo outfit be unable to twist the Tigers tails when the West Siders journey to Centennial field, Signor Al will have to forego his pleasure.

As is well known the Scarazzo outfit, which is managed by "Specs" Black, captured the first half of the season. They turned the trick as easily as a youngster devours an ice cream cone.

Having bagged the halfway flag without much of a fight the Scarazzo outfit grew a little cocky and as conceit breads downfall it wasn't long until the club received setbacks.

Yes, sir, folk, the team which has what is supposed to be an aggregation of murderous hitters and a galaxy of star hurlers was tossed—slammed would be better—for defeats.

"Things can't continue like this," spoke up Signor Al to Manager Black. In turn 'Specs' got busy, several of the players were called and they were told: "Get out and play ball!"

So they started. One of the teams which had been going rather good was Brent and they came here with Serwatka, a big, raw-boned chap with a world of speed.

Baits Batters

What happend can be told in the score of 11 to 4 in favor of Scarazzo. Wylie Shiek hurled good baseball and everybody wanted to knock the ball out of the park and almost did.

Hearing this news Tom McCormick, who has been catching for an age, said something that sounded like: "Ugh, let those boys double. Serwatka must have been away off color."

Tom, be it known, doesn't believe that the Scarazzo outfit can twist the Tigers' tails and he's going out there with the West Siders prepared to rub the Scarazzo club for a defeat.

They say that he is an artist at getting the goat of the batters. One of the boys he likes to bait is Paul McCullough, the 175 pound pitcher who has an airplane of speed.

It isn't exactly known who will pitch the ball game for the Tigers but according to a sly wink and a smile, if this is the way McCormick signals, their pitcher will be "right."

Scarazzo may use McCullough. He hurled plenty of good baseball at Oil City. He's been giving his arm a square deal lately and when he is right, Paul's a hard pitcher to beat.

Preceding this game the Scarazzo outfit will play the Castletons at two o'clock and the Scarazzo-Tigers tilt will get under way about three p. m. D. S. T.

FALCONS TO PLAY

Tonight at Rose avenue field the Polish Falcons will play the East Side Merchants. The game starts at 6:30 o'clock. All Falcon players should report at the Falcon Hall at 6 o'clock.

Jimmy McLarnin Suffers Beating

Lou Brouillard Gives Veteran Jimmy McLarnin Lacing In Ten Rounds

FORMER CHAMP ABOUT THROUGH

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—James Archibald McLarnin, the one time "killer", came back to boxing last night for the first time in nearly a year and himself was almost massacred in ten rounds by a ferocious young butcher who was introduced as Lou Brouillard, the former welterweight champion.

It was Brouillard's first appearance in New York and possibly McLarnin's last. As long as Brouillard remains a welterweight, in fact, McLarnin will do well to remain a spectator.

Bent double through the last five rounds and heaving poignantly with the punches, McLarnin took a cruel beating about the body and was weak and tottering at the end. He wasn't the only one in pain, at that.

Very Small Crowd.

The promotion presented the maiden effort of Mr. Tim Mara and the fight probably did less than $35,000.

McLarnin, they say, was handicapped by loose boards in the ring and his long months out of it. Another handicap they forgot to mention was Brouillard. That young man is a downright hindrance.

Clearly outpunched in the early minutes, he came on through the third, fourth and fifth with a profusion of left hooks that landed with sickening regularity in McLarnin's bosom and by the time the bell had sounded to end the sixth round, McLarnin was practically ended, too. It was in this round that McLarnin started to cross a right a split-second after Brouillard had hooked a left down below, the delay being almost fatal to James. He folded over with the punch, his eyes rolled strangely in his head and, after that, he never was quite the same man.

Indies Wallop Garlands, 12-0

Lawrence Indies romped merrily on the Cedar street grounds Thursday and when evening had come they had beaten the Garlands of West Pittsburg 12 to 0 in an American division Twilight baseball league game. Majocka was in excellent form and he had the Garlands hitting at the ball but smashing nothing but the ozone. Bell Telephone Loses City Golf League Leadership

Victory By Pennsylvania R. R. Sextet Changes Team Standings

With most of the players settling down into their proper strides, some excellent golf was shot in the New Castle Golf League last evening at Castle Hills, and Bell Telephone, which has been leading the lead was shoved down into fourth place by virtue of the victory which Pennsylvania R. R. scored over them.

Shenango Tin and The News sharpshooters who have occupied the cellar positions also elevated themselves in the race last evening, and it would not be surprising to see further changes when the various teams meet next week.

The Dentists drew a bye last evening, when they were scheduled to play the Bankers, who have dropped out of the league. An effort is being made to secure a team to take their place.

Hackett Kennedy, playing the last nine at Castle Hills shot a brilliant 35, two under par to win his match for Reick-McJunkin, while Johnny Hill, former Muny caddy, who is a member of The News team scored a 39, four over par on the first nine to win his match for The News.

Ed. Koonce of Shenango Tin had a 40, just three over par on the last nine for another good score.

The scores last evening were as follows:—

Pennsylvania R. R. 4½, Bell Telephone 1½, Shenango Tin 3½, Reick-McJunkin 2½, New Castle News 4½, Reynolds, Summers and McCann 1½, Blair Strip Steel 6, Pennsylvania Power 0; Pennsylvania Engineering 3½, S. S. Merchants 2½, Dentists, bye.

The league standing follows:—

Tennis Court On South Side Now Opened For Play

New Castle Tennis And Racquet Club Open Fine Court Near Hospital

The New Castle Tennis and Racquet Club opened the Phillips-Robingson Courts, near the New Castle Hospital, after six weeks of hard labor. An even dozen of young South Side men resurfaced the two courts with loam donated by Joseph V. Bullano of South Mercer street.

Ground for the singles and doubles courts has been donated by Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. C. C. Robingson. New screen, poles and nets for the courts were purchased through popular subscription among the business and professional citizens of the city. Tennis scoreboards have been introduced to the various courts of the city.

Members of the New Castle Tennis and Racquet Club who have taken an active interest in the rebuilding of the courts are: Frank DeLillo, Bennie Ciccone, Andy Lasky, Billie Bullano, S. C. Isabella, Walter Hemphil, Patsy Diana, James Cucia, Mike Morelli, Angelo DeCarbo, Charles Cioffi, Paul Cuba, Alec Natale and Charlie Giordani.

The courts are used by the members of the club and the student nurses of the New Castle Hospital. Visitors enroute to the hospital stop and admire the beauty of the courts.

In the Southwest corner of the court is a beautiful huckleberry tree which shades the several park benches occupied by the numerous spectators that witness the tennis matches.

Liberty Grange

The regular meeting of Liberty Grange was held Tuesday evening, Aug. 2, with R. J. Drake, master, in the chair. During the lecturer's hour a very interesting program was put on by the young people of Mahoning Valley, New Bedford and New Wilmington Granges, after which refreshments were served and games took up the remainder of the evening.

A group of members from the Potato Growers Association will go on a tour on Friday, Aug. 12, to Wooster, O. Among the group who will go from here are R. J. Drake, Charles B. Patton and William Doloughen.

Mrs. Venetta Kildoo and daughter Jessie, Mrs. M. W. McCracken and daughter Gladys and Prof. W. F. McCracken and daughter, Jessie Mae, motored to Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland county, and spent the week-end as the guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Vandegrift.

Mrs. D. C. Locke and son James of Monaca are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Locke and family.

The many friends of Reed Forbes will be pleased to learn that he shows signs of improvement at this writing.

Mrs. J. W. Dicks of the Pulaski road spent Sunday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Russell.

Mrs. Ernest Brooks and daughter Audrey of Greenville have left the Jameson Memorial hospital and are spending this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Locke.

Miss Mima Shuler and Lewis West of New Castle called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shuler Sunday evening.

It's usually a pull on the exhilarator that prompts the step on the accelerator.

Considerable Quantity Of Liquor Is Seized By Officers, They Report

Two liquor raids were made Thursday afternoon and evening by Constables James H. Ellison, Thomas F. O'Brien, Andy Fair, and Raymond Talley, in which a considerable quantity of liquor was seized, one still confiscated, mash and equipment destroyed, and two men in jail.

In the home of Joseph Granato of 1106 Pollock avenue, a complete still was found, with mash, corn sugar and other incidentals used in the manufacture of liquor. Constable Ellison also stated that Red Cross flour was found near the still and had apparently been used to get the dough used in sealing a wash boiler still. Granato was held by Alderman Marshall and in default of bail is in jail.

Ed. Koliswaski of Howard Way was arrested and had in his possession 90 quarts of beer, and some hard liquor. He is also being held by Alderman Marshall for court, and is in jail in default of bail.

Jail Fare Looks Good To Him

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 5.—Prison fare tasted mighty good today to Clyde Belles, 25, of McKeesport, who was successful yesterday in pleading before Judge George V. Moore that he be given a jail sentence for a mythical parole violation he had never committed.

When Belles asked that he be committed to jail for violation of his parole, Judge Moore asked what he had done.

"Nohting," was the reply, "but I am starving, and can't find work. I know I will either steal or commit suicide soon."

Belles had been on parole from a three year sentence since May of 1931. He had never violated his parole, Charles Austin, chief probation officer, said.

Judge Moore sentenced Belles to six months in jail, with the implication that he would be released any time he made the request.

Borough May Present Damage Claims To Harmony Company

Receives Notification To Have Delegate Present At Hearing August 22

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug., 5.—Ellwood City Borough received notification to have a delegate present their damage claims against the Harmony Short Line Company, when the said company will hear other cases in the district court of the United States for western Pennsylvania on Aug. 22 at Pittsburgh. The court at this time will hear and pass upon claims, and distribute the present funds in the hands of Maurice R. Scharff, receiver of the said company. If preferred claims are allowed there will be no distribution to general creditors. The situation was left in the hands of the Finance committee and Borough Solicitor, J. W. Humphrey. This action was taken at the monthly meeting of council in the city building last night.

Monthly reports were also heard at this time. The fire chief reports that there were three fires for the month of July in one of which there was no damage and the other two a total damage of $19,200. For their services firemen received $216.

Six arrests were made in July. Two prisoners were discharged, two fined, and one forfeited. Total fines and forfeits yielded $210 according to the regular report of the police department.

There was only one contagious case, which was measles, for the month of July according to the report of the Health Officer.

Upon a recommendation of the street committee, council voted to pass the resurfacing of the cartways on the Second street viaduct which has enabled proper drainage. The new surface put on by the B. & O. Company has been in use for two months and has proved to be satisfactory.

A request from Attorney Orville Brown in behalf of the Citizens National Bank of Ellwood City asking a return of certain nogotiable securities that the borough is now in possession of. The borough had received the above bonds and securities for funds deposited in the bank which is now defunct. Upon recommendation of the Finance committee council will not accede to the request.

As a result of a suggestion by Councilman M. A. Riley, several recommendations which Borough Manager, Lowell W. Monroe, made as to correcting drainage conditions on Pittsburgh Circle, Line avenue, and on Beachwood Boulevard, were referred to the proper committees.

Borough Solicitor J. W. Humphrey announced that he has reached a satisfactory conclusion with Sabin Sabino on his damage claims against the borough, as a result of the construction of the Second street viaduct. The courts had allowed a larger sum of damages than the borough was willing to pay which the borough immediately protested. The finance committee headed by G. H. Morrison revised the damage claims and presented them to the persons concerned. Sabino who had the largest claim accepted the borough's proposal and has received his check. A like action from the other persons is expected soon.

Request Property Owners To Trim Trees In Ellwood

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 5.— Now that the tall grass and unsightly weeds in Ellwood City are no more, council at last night's meeting made another request of local citizens.

Many complaints have been received in the borough building against low hanging branches along the streets in the city which have a tendency to hurt pedestrians or knock off hats. Council will make a formal request of citizens to trim the trees adjoining their property in such a manner as to eliminate this danger. The result of this will also make a better looking tree.

Recommend New Police Signal System Here

Police Committee Makes Report To Council Of Recent Investigation

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 5—The police committee of the borough council headed by William McGlincy, in their report to that body at its regular meeting in the city building last night, heartily recommended the installation of the Gamewell police signal system in Ellwood City, as a practical efficient and economic measure for the community.

If the report of the committee and its tabulations are correct, it is doubtful whether council will hesitate to accept the recommendation and give their approval for the installation of the system. But just as a check up upon suggestion of Councilman M. A. Riley, [illegible] matter with the finance committee [illegible]

The advantages of the system over the present, is that in the former greater protection is possible with fewer men. With this system an entire police force can be mobilized at any desired point in the city by visible signals or elsewise. The three members of the police committee had viewed the system in operation at Wheeling, W. Va., and held it high in their estimation for its efficiency.

One outstanding feature of the plan is its saving of money as compared with the present telephone system. The Gamewell system can be purchased and paid for in eleven years. Up to the eleven years the company looks after the upkeep. After this it will belong to the borough who will only have an annual repair bill.

Seek To Force Tax Collector To Accept Plan

Ellwood Council Proposes Plan To Be Followed In Tax Problem

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 5.—Unless Tax Collector T. A. E. McConahy accepts the proposal of the Ellwood City Borough Council within ten days, definite steps will be taken to remove him from office, according to a resolution passed by council at its monthly meeting in the borough building last night.

The resolution was presented by G. H. Morrison, chairman of the Finance Committee, and it was after some deliberation and debate that the resolution was passed. In summary the resolution was as follows:

Whereas: Tax Collector T. A. E. McConahy has failed and neglected to give bond as provided by law so as to qualify him to receive and collect taxes on the duplicate for 1932 and thereafter.

Be it further resolved that said tax collector be notified that he enter into bond to the commonwealth in not more than the amount of taxes charged and assessed in 1932 duplicate with at least two sufficient sureties on one trust or bond company within ten days from the date when this resolution is served, upon him, unless he complies said office of tax collector in the borough of Ellwood City shall be declared vacant and a successor be appointed by council as provided by the act of May 4, 1927.

The aim of the council in passing this resolution is so that the 1932 taxes may become collectable. The borough desires to take over the accounts of the tax collector and run the business from their own headquarters. By doing this the tax collector would be deprived of his commission as stated by law. An agent of the borough would be selected to collect the taxes at an agreed price. But the law states that the tax collector is the only one who has the authority to collect taxes. Therefore McConahy would be employed by council at a set rate to continue the collection of taxes.

At present Mr. McConahy is having difficulty obtaining bond for the year of 1932. Councilman Riley stated he will be unable to do so until his 1930 and 1931 taxes are cleared up. As a majority council was not in favor of passing the resolution unless there was a certain "gentleman's agreement" understood.

Unnecessary hardship on taxpayers as a result of this resolution will not materialize, council states. For a period it was feared that when the resolution was made public Tax Collector McConahy would begin serving the 600 some warrants he has prepared for delinquent taxpayers or else begin filing liens, and filling the jails.

A further consideration of this matter will take place at a special meeting of council on August 15, it was announced.

British Savants Bring Equipment To Study Eclipse

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug., 5.—Four tons of scientific equipment from the Royal Observatory at Greenwich were shipped to Canada from here to enable British scientists to examine and study the sun's corona during the eclipse of August 31.

In the 100 seconds of total eclipse, shadowing a path 100 miles wide through Canada and the United States, a select group of British scientists making the long journey for that purpose hope to penetrate the mystery of the corona and chromosphere.

Parent, in the Province of Quebec, has been selected as field observatory because many American expeditions will be on the job elsewhere, while uncertainty of weather conditions make it advisable to have observation parties at as many vantage points as possible.

C. R. Davidson, one of the British expedition members, said:

"Our purpose is to extend our knowledge of the physical condition of the sun, especially the corona and chromosphere. The composition of the corona has been a mystery up to now."

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Perhaps these mountains we have in Pennsylvania are worse than we thought. Or just look worse to strangers than they really are. Especially if you happen to come from a flat state.

A lady from New Jersey came into the Motor Club yesterday and wanted routed to Long Branch, N. J. A simple enough matter ordinarily, take 422 to Ebensburg and 22 on through to the Jersey line but the lady didn't want that at all. She was afraid of the mountains.

It was explained to her that over the William Penn the elevation never got very high, 2500 feet at the most, but that was away to high for her. She wanted roads that didn't go up or down much and finally the young lady at the club routed her over what appeared to be a Cooks Tour of Pennsylvania and New York.

From here to Franklin, then to Corry, then over the Roosevelt Highway on up through to Bignhampton, N. Y. zigzag down through Port Jervis, and on down through the tip of New York to Jersey, skipping the larger cities. May take her several days but she'll not be bothered with much dizzy altitude.

The work on building that road from New Castle to Wilmington isn't starting any too soon, if you take the word of the folks along that highway for it. For some time the road has been corduroyed, and driving over it was a certain way of finding out if you had any squeaks in your car. Or putting some in.

Important News. The News golf team won a match at the Municipal course last night, which is important if true. And this with Nunn and Gilliland on the opposing team. The boys are urging a recount.

Out on the Slippery Rock there isn't any complaint this week about the hot nights. It isn't just cool out there, it's cold, and parking for the night means a plenty of blankets. And then that invigorating dash to the creek in the morning to get washed. To the accompaniment of chattering teeth.

Report New Road To Be Constructed In Mercer County

GROVE CITY, Pa., Aug. 5.—While the official confirmation of the fact is impossible to get at this time it is larned on excellent authority that the state highway department through its secondary road program of construction is planning the building of a water bound road to Center church.

Should this take place it will connect with a similar route there which hits the Butler Pike at Blacktown. There is very little doubt of the construction of this route either now or at some time in the near future.

The connecting link would be over two miles in length from Grove City borough line to the church. The route will of course be built by the road building organization in the county with headquarters at Mercer. The building of 370 miles of road in the county is planned of this type of construction.

According to plans announced by the surviving brother just prior to his departure for Alaska, he will take his brother's ashes aloft in an airplane and scatter them over Mt. McKinley.

ROCKET GLIDER PLANE HAS TRIAL FLIGHT

(International News Service)

OSNABRUECK, Germany, Aug. 5.—A rocket glider plane has been constructed and successfully tried by Heinrich Tilling, German rocket pioneer who has been working for years on perfecting the mail rocket.

When the rocket loses speed about 6,000 feet above the ground, it automatically unfolds again. During the demonstrations Tiling made on a lake near Osnabrueck, the rocket made a perfect landing on the lake. The same rocket was recovered, re-charged and used for three more ascents.
